He was promoted in 2011 to senior vice president of player personnel and received his current title in 2022. In his position, Mara evaluates both college and professional players.

Mara was instrumental in acquiring numerous players on the 2007 and 2011 Giants teams that won Super Bowls XLII and XLVI.

Mara first joined the Giants' staff prior to the 1979 season and over the next 14 years, Mara was a member of the club's player personnel department. Mara was a scout during the franchise's first two Super Bowl Championship seasons in 1986 and 1990.

Following his first stint with the Giants, Mara spent eight years (1994-2001) operating ProRate, Inc., an independent football scouting service contracted by as many as 15 NFL franchises. The service provided an evaluation of the free agent market in the NFL.

After a difficult first season, the Gladiators posted a 9-5 record in 2002 and a first-place finish in the Eastern Division of the National Conference. Posting the biggest turnaround in AFL history, the Gladiators finished the 2002 regular season with seven more victories than the previous year. They qualified for the playoffs for the first time in franchise history.

Mara graduated from Iona Prep in New Rochelle, N.Y. where he was a standout defensive back for three seasons, winning All-Catholic High School Athletic Association recognition after his senior year.

JOE SCHOEN

SENIOR VICE PRESIDENT AND GENERAL MANAGER

Joe Schoen, who has over 20 years of NFL experience as a scout and personnel executive, is in his fourth year as the Giants' senior vice president and general manager.

In his fourth NFL Draft as general manager, Schoen took seven players to bolster the roster. In the first round, the Giants selected linebacker Abdul Carter out of Penn State with the third overall pick. The Giants then acquired another first-round selection by trading picks No. 34, 99 and a 2026 third-round selection for the Texans' 25th overall pick, which they then used to select Mississippi quarterback Jaxson Dart. The rookie class was rounded out by defensive tackle Darius Alexander, running back Cam Skattebo, offensive lineman Marcus Mbow and a pair of seventh-round picks in tight end Thomas Fidone II and defensive back Korie Black.

Schoen added a couple of veterans in the secondary during the 2025 offseason in Paulson Adebo and Jevón Holland, both of whom signed at the beginning of free agency. On the offensive side of the ball, the Giants brought in 10-time Pro Bowler and Super Bowl XLVIII champion Russell Wilson to lead the unit, as well as 11-year veteran Jameis Winston. The Giants also retained wide receiver Darius Slayton, who re-signed on a three-year contract.

The 2024 NFL Draft delivered six players who contributed in their first season. First-round choice Malik Nabers set the franchise single-season record with 109 receptions, which also marks the most by any rookie wide receiver in NFL history. Nabers and running back Tyrone Tracy Jr. became just the third rookie duo in league annals to both surpass 1,000 yards from scrimmage. Safety Tyler Nubin led all rookies in tackles with 97, despite missing the final four games of the season with an ankle injury. Cornerback Dru Phillips, inside linebacker Darius Muasau and tight end Theo Johnson also played major roles.

Schoen upgraded the roster in 2024, adding 17 veteran players via free agency and engineering a trade with the Carolina Panthers that delivered premier pass rusher Brian Burns, a two-time Pro Bowler. Burns produced 8.5 sacks in his first season as a Giant, tied for the second-most by a Giant in their first season. Along the offensive line, guard Jon Runyan, Jr., (13 starts) and offensive lineman Jermaine Eluemunor (15 starts) made an immediate impact as starters.

In 2023, the Giants suffered a rash of injuries that limited quarterback Daniel Jones to six games and forced them to play long stretches without star left tackle Andrew Thomas and kicker Graham Gano. The reserve quarterbacks played several contests behind a patchwork offensive line.

But Schoen assembled a determined and resilient roster that played hard in every game. In the season's final three weeks, the Giants lost by eight points at defending NFC champion Philadelphia and by a single point to the postseason-bound Los Angeles Rams before ending the year with a resounding 27-10 victory against the Eagles, who were also headed to the playoffs.

In 2022, his first season in the position, Schoen's retooling of the front office, hiring a standout head coach and restructuring the roster resulted in the Giants finishing with nine regular-season victories – five more than in 2021 – earning their first postseason berth in six years and winning their first playoff game since 2011.

The Giants' first two drafts with Schoen at the helm delivered numerous players who have been vital contributors for many seasons, including Kayvon Thibodeaux, Evan Neal, Wan'Dale Robinson, Micah McFadden, Deonte Banks and John Michael Schmitz. He also re-signed Pro Bowl defensive lineman Dexter Lawrence II and extended second-team All-Pro Andrew Thomas, while adding veteran linebacker Bobby Okereke, who played every snap and led the Giants with 149 tackles during the 2023 season.

When he was hired on Jan. 21, 2022, Schoen became just the Giants' fifth general manager since 1979, when Pro Football Hall of Famer George Young joined the organization. Young was succeeded in 1998 by his assistant, Ernie Accorsi, who is in the franchise's Ring of Honor. Jerry Reese took over in 2007, the year he presided over the first of two Super Bowl victories. Dave Gettleman was the general manager for four seasons before announcing his retirement the day following the final game of the 2021 season. Schoen is the first Giants general manager without previous ties to the franchise since Young.

One week after he was introduced as the general manager, Schoen hired Brian Daboll, with whom he worked for four years with the Buffalo Bills. Daboll's leadership, offensive acumen and strategic decisions not only fueled the Giants' resurgence but earned him the 2022 NFL Coach of the Year award.

Schoen strengthened the organization by adding several important personnel experts, including assistant general manager Brandon Brown, assistant director of player personnel Dennis Hickey and director of pro scouting Chris Rossetti, while retaining longtime contributors Kevin Abrams and Tim McDonnell.

Schoen joined the Bills staff in 2017 and teamed with general manager Brandon Beane to make Buffalo a regular postseason participant and championship contender. Before they arrived in upstate New York, the Bills failed to make the playoffs for 17 consecutive seasons. After Schoen became Beane's top associate, the Bills earned a postseason berth in four of his five seasons with the team, including each of the last three, usurped six-time Super Bowl champion New England as the AFC East's best team and won the last two division titles, and advanced to the conference championship game in 2020.

Schoen was instrumental in acquiring a large majority of the players that have fueled Buffalo's successful run, including quarterback Josh Allen – selected seventh overall in the 2018 NFL Draft - wide receiver Stefon Diggs, running back Devin Singletary, wide receiver Gabe Davis, tight end Dawson Knox, defensive tackle Ed Oliver, linebacker Tremaine Edmonds, and kicker Tyler Bass.

Prior to moving to Buffalo, Schoen spent most of the previous decade in the Dolphins' front office, including the last three years as the team's director of player personnel.

Schoen's first year in Miami was 2008 when he began a five-year stint as one of the Dolphins' national scouts. In the first three of those years, he worked under Giants two-time Super Bowl-winning coach and Pro Football Hall of Famer Bill Parcells, then the team's executive vice president of football operations.

In 2013, Schoen was promoted to assistant director of college scouting. He led Miami's preparation, assessment and acquisition of potential professional and collegiate free agents. Schoen was heavily involved in Miami's NFL draft preparations, including evaluation and draft board construction while also serving as a key liaison between the coaching staff and personnel staff.

Schoen's first NFL job was as a ticket office intern with the Carolina Panthers in 2000 when he was a 21-year-old college junior. Beane, who filled various personnel and executive roles in his 19 seasons with Carolina, then presented Schoen with an opportunity to work in football operations. Schoen spent seven seasons (2001-07) working for the Panthers under Marty Hurney, first as a scouting assistant and then as a southeast and southwest area scout.

A native of Elkhart, Indiana, Schoen graduated from DePauw University in 2001 with a communications degree. He was a quarterback as a freshman and a wide receiver in his final three years, serving as a captain during his senior season.

Schoen and his wife, Marie, have three children, daughters Sydney and Harper Grace and son Carson.

BRIAN DABOLL

HEAD COACH

Brian Daboll was hired as the 20th head coach in Giants history on Jan. 28, 2022, and directed one of the most successful debut seasons in the history of the franchise.

Daboll was named the 2022 NFL Coach of the Year after leading a resurgence that resulted in nine regular-season victories, the team's first playoff berth in six years, and its first postseason victory in 11 seasons. The Giants won just four games the previous season and Daboll was the first coach since 1990 selected Coach of the Year with fewer than 10 victories.

Daboll was the first Giants coach to be selected Coach of the Year since Jim Fassel in 1997. Like Fassel, Daboll took over a team that was last in the NFC East the previous year and led it to the playoffs in his debut season. He took the team one step further by defeating the Minnesota Vikings in an NFC Wild Card Game.

Daboll was the fifth Giants coach to be selected Coach of the Year since it was first awarded in 1957. Allie Sherman was honored in 1961 and 1962, Bill Parcells in 1986, Dan Reeves in 1993 and Fassel four years later.

When he was the Buffalo Bills' offensive coordinator in 2020, Daboll was voted the AP NFL Assistant Coach of the Year after the Bills finished 13-3 and unseated longtime powerhouse New England atop the division. Daboll is the first person to win both Coach of the Year and Assistant Coach of the Year awards.

Daboll directed a Giants' team in 2024 that set a number of franchise records on the offensive side of the ball. Rookie wide receiver Malik Nabers recorded 109 receptions for 1,204 yards and seven touchdowns. His 109 receptions established a rookie record for wide receivers, as well as surpassed the Giants single-season franchise record set by Steve Smith in 2009 (107 receptions). Nabers (1,206 yards) and rookie running back Tyrone Tracy Jr. (1,123 yards) became just the third rookie duo in NFL history to both surpass 1,000 yards from scrimmage.

Third-year wide receiver Wan'Dale Robinson set career highs in 2024 with 93 receptions for 699 yards and three touchdowns. Robinson and Nabers became the first duo in Giants history to record 90+ receptions each in a single season. They were the only pair of teammates to achieve that accomplishment in the NFL in 2024.

In 2023, numerous Giants players suffered injuries that sidelined them for multiple games. Quarterback Daniel Jones was limited to six games and the Giants played for a significant time without tackles Andrew Thomas and Evan Neal, running back Saquon Barkley, tight end Darren Waller, center John Michael Schmitz, and kicker Graham Gano. The reserve quarterbacks played several contests behind a patchwork offensive line.

But Daboll's Giants displayed maximum effort in every game. In the season's final three weeks, the Giants lost by eight points at defending NFC champion Philadelphia and by a single point to the postseason-bound Los Angeles Rams before ending the year with a resounding 27-10 victory against the Eagles, who were also headed to the playoffs. It was the Giants' first victory against Philadelphia in six meetings, including one in the playoffs.

The Giants scored 25, 25 and 27 points in those three games, three of their five highest point totals of the season.

Under Daboll's mentorship, rookie free agent quarterback Tommy DeVito started six games in Jones' absence and won half of them, leading the Giants to victories at Washington and in home games vs. New England and Green Bay. DeVito was the first Giants rookie quarterback to win three consecutive starts since Phil Simms won four in a row in 1979. He was just the third undrafted rookie quarterback since the 1970 merger to win three starts in a season, joining Ed Rubbert, who won three strike-replacement games for Washington in 1987, and Pittsburgh's Devlin Hodges in 2019.

DeVito was selected NFC Offensive Player of the Week after leading the Giants to a Monday night victory vs. the Packers. He completed 17 of 21 passes (season-high 81%) for 158 yards, one touchdown and no interceptions for a passer rating of 113.9 and added 10 rushing attempts for 71 yards. In the 74 seasons since the NFL began tracking starting quarterbacks in 1950, DeVito became the first starter in league history to complete at least 80% of his passes, rush for 70+ yards, commit no turnovers and take no sacks.

In Daboll's debut season, the Giants finished 9-7-1 and qualified for the NFC playoffs as a wild card team. It was the Giants' first winning season and first postseason appearance since 2016. The Giants won just four games in 2021, the year prior to Daboll's arrival, and the five-game improvement is their largest in one season since they jumped from six victories in 2015 to 11 the following season.

Daboll was the fifth coach in Giants history to lead the team to the playoffs in his debut season, joining Sherman (1961), Reeves (1993), Fassel (1997) and Ben McAdoo (2016). Rookie coach Earl Potteiger led the Giants to the 1927 NFL championship in the era before playoffs.

Daboll was one of three first-year head coaches to lead his team to the postseason in 2022, joining Minnesota's Kevin O'Connell and Miami's Mike McDaniel. Daboll was the only one of the three to advance to the divisional round, and he did so with a victory against O'Connell's Vikings.

Daboll was the first Giants coach to win his postseason debut since Reeves in 1993. He joined Jim Lee Howell, Ray Perkins, Bill Parcells and Reeves as Giants coaches who were victorious in their first playoff games.

The Daboll difference was evident early in the season. In 2020 and 2021, the Giants started 0-5 and then 0-3. But in their first game under Daboll, they overcame a 13-0 halftime deficit to defeat the Titans in Tennessee, 21-20, on a touchdown and two-point conversion with 1:06 remaining. Daboll was the first Giants coach to win five of his first six games since Reeves in 1993, and his 6-1 start was the best for a coach in his first Giants season since LeRoy Andrews was 6-0-1 in 1929.

In the first five weeks of the season, the Giants defeated Tennessee and Green Bay, the 2021 No. 1 playoff seeds in their respective conferences.

The Giants performed significantly better on offense in 2022 than they had the previous season. Their 365 points were 107 more than they scored in 2021. The Giants averaged 333.9 yards a game, an increase of 46.6 yards per game. One year after averaging 99.3 rushing yards a game and 4.0 yards per carry, they finished fourth in the NFL with 148.2 rushing yards a game and fifth with 4.8 yards a carry. Their 352 first downs were 53 more than the previous season.

Under the tutelage of Daboll and his offensive assistants, quarterback Daniel Jones and running back Saquon Barkley had their finest statistical seasons.

Jones completed 317-of-472 passes for 3,205 yards, all career highs. His 15 touchdown passes were the 2nd-highest total of his career, and his 5 interceptions were a career low. Jones' passer rating was a career-best 92.5 and his 67.16 completion percentage was a Giants' single-season record. He had each of his five highest single-game completion percentages in 2022: 80.9 at Tennessee, 80.6 vs. Washington, 79.2 vs. Indianapolis, 77.8 at Green Bay and 76.5 vs. Houston. Jones led the NFL and set a franchise record by throwing an interception on just 1.1% of his passes (five in 472 throws).

In addition, Jones rushed for a Giants quarterback-record 708 yards and seven touchdowns on 120 carries, all the second-highest totals on the team.

Barkley was selected to his second Pro Bowl and was one of three players nominated for the NFL Comeback Player of the Year award. He had career-high totals of 295 carries for 1,312 yards – the NFL's fourth-highest total - and rushed for 10 touchdowns, one less than his career-high rookie total. Barkley was also the team's co-leader with 57 receptions and was seventh in the NFL with 1,650 scrimmage yards, almost double his 2021 total of 856.

Daboll joined the Giants with 20 years of NFL coaching experience.

He was a five-time Super Bowl champion with the New England Patriots and won a national championship at the University of Alabama.

Daboll joined the Giants after spending the previous four seasons as the offensive coordinator of the Bills. He devised the game plans and called the plays for one of the most productive offenses in the NFL, one that helped Buffalo earn three consecutive playoff berths, win two AFC East titles and advance to the conference championship game in 2020.

Daboll also oversaw the development of quarterback Josh Allen, the seventh overall selection in the 2018 NFL Draft. Allen is the only player in history with 100 passing touchdowns and 30 rushing scores in his first four years. In his last two seasons working with Daboll, Allen threw 73 touchdown passes against just 24 interceptions.

In 2021, Daboll's offense excelled as Buffalo won its second straight AFC East championship with an 11-6 record. The Bills finished third in the NFL with 28.4 points a game and fifth with 381.9 yards a game. Allen was sixth in the league with a franchise-record 409 completions, seventh with 36 touchdown passes and eighth with 4,407 yards. Allen's favorite target, wide receiver Stefon Diggs, caught 103 passes for 1,225 yards and 10 touchdowns.

Daboll was voted the AP's NFL Assistant Coach of the Year in 2020 when Allen finished second in the NFL MVP voting after setting Buffalo single-season franchise records with 4,544 yards, 37 touchdown passes, a 69.2 completion percentage and a 107.2 passer rating.

Daboll joined the Bills in 2018 and in his second season the Bills scored 45 more points and won four more games than they had in the previous season to earn a wild card berth.

In 2017, Daboll returned to collegiate coaching for the first time in 18 years when he became the offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach at Alabama, which finished 13-1 and earned its 17th national championship. The Crimson Tide averaged 38.8 points, 245.0 rushing yards, 210.3 passing yards and 455.3 yards of total offense in Daboll's one season in Tuscaloosa. Daboll coached future NFL quarterbacks Jalen Hurts, Tua Tagovailoa and Mac Jones.

Daboll joined the Crimson Tide after spending the previous four seasons with the Patriots, his second stint with the team. He spent a total of 11 seasons in New England and helped the team win five Super Bowl titles (XXXVI, XXXVIII, XXXIX, XLIX and LI).

Daboll was an offensive assistant in 2013 before coaching the Patriots' tight ends the next three seasons. Under his tutelage, Rob Gronkowski was selected first-team All-Pro in 2014 and 2015. The following season, Gronkowski and Martellus Bennett combined for 80 receptions, 1,241 yards and 10 touchdowns.

Daboll was the Kansas City Chiefs' offensive coordinator in 2012. The Chiefs finished fifth in the NFL with an average of 149.7 rushing yards a game. Jamaal Charles was fourth with 1,509 yards and five touchdowns and averaged 5.3 yards a carry while earning a selection to the Pro Bowl.

In 2011, Daboll was offensive coordinator in Miami, which improved from 30th in the league the year before his arrival to 20th during his one season with the team. That Dolphins team had both a 1,000-yard rusher and 1,000-yard receiver for the first time in franchise history as Reggie Bush ran for 1,086 yards and Brandon Marshall totaled 1,214 yards while catching a team-high 81 passes.

Prior to joining the Dolphins, Daboll served as Cleveland's offensive coordinator during the 2009 and 2010 seasons. The Browns offense saw dramatic improvement in the second half of the 2009 season. Cleveland scored 11.1 more points per game, was 20.8 percent better in the red zone, converted on 14.7 percent more third downs and averaged 1.9 fewer turnovers per game during the final eight games of the season. The 2010 season saw the Browns improve 12 spots to rank eighth in the NFL in rushing offense, averaging 130.4 yards per game.

Daboll coached quarterbacks during his two seasons (2007-08) with the New York Jets. He helped Hall of Fame quarterback Brett Favre pick up the Jets offense after the signal-caller came out of retirement. In his one season under Daboll, Favre was named to the AFC Pro Bowl team and had the second-highest completion percentage of his career (65.7). Daboll also helped the Jets improve from the NFL's 25th-ranked scoring offense in his first season to No. 9 in season two, averaging 25.3 points per game.

Daboll's first stint in New England began in 2000, his first of two seasons as a defensive assistant for head coach Bill Belichick.

From 2002-06, he coached the Patriots' wide receivers. Daboll helped Deion Branch earn Super Bowl XXXIX MVP honors in the Patriots' victory against Philadelphia following the 2004 season. Branch became the first wide receiver to win the honor since San Francisco's Jerry Rice in Super Bowl XXIII after the 1988 season.

Prior to entering the NFL, Daboll spent the 1997 season as a volunteer assistant at the College of William & Mary before serving two seasons (1998-99) as a graduate assistant for Nick Saban at Michigan State.

Daboll graduated from the University of Rochester in 1997 with an economics degree. He was a two-year starter at safety for the Yellowjackets and intercepted three passes against Case Western in his junior season.

Daboll was born in Welland, Ontario, Canada, a suburb of Niagara Falls. He was raised by his grandparents and mother in West Seneca, N.Y. Daboll lettered in football at Saint Francis High School in Athol Springs, N.Y.

Daboll and his wife Beth have six children: Mark, Christian, Aiden, Haven, Avery and Luke.

MIKE KAFKA

ASSISTANT HEAD COACH/ OFFENSIVE COORDINATOR

Mike Kafka is in his fourth season as the Giants' offensive coordinator and his second with the additional title of assistant head coach. This is his ninth season coaching in the NFL.

Kafka oversaw the ascension of rookie wide receiver Malik Nabers in 2024. Nabers recorded 109 receptions for 1,204 yards and seven touchdowns. His 109 receptions set a new rookie record for wide receivers, as well as surpassed the Giants single-season franchise record set by Steve Smith in 2009 (107 receptions). Nabers (1,206 yards) and rookie running back Tyrone Tracy Jr. (1,123 yards) became just the third rookie duo in NFL history to surpass 1,000 yards from scrimmage.

Wan'Dale Robinson set new career highs in 2024, posting 93 receptions for 699 yards and three touchdowns. Robinson and Nabers became the first duo in Giants history to record 90+ receptions each in a single season and were the only pair of teammates to accomplish this in 2024.

The Giants' best offensive output of the season came in Week 17, in a 45-33 victory over the Colts. It was the most points scored by a Giants team since they scored 52 at the Saints on Nov. 1, 2015. Drew Lock completed 17-of-23 passes for 309 yards, four touchdowns and a career-high passer rating of 155.3 He also scored a rushing touchdown, making him the fifth player in NFL history to throw for 300+ yards, 4+ rushing touchdowns, 1+ rushing touchdown and a passer rating higher than 155 in a single game.

In 2023, Kafka directed an offense that improved and developed throughout the season despite a series of injuries at several positions. The Giants started three different quarterbacks as Daniel Jones played in only six games because of neck and knee injuries. Running back Saquon Barkley, tight end Darren Waller, tackles Andrew Thomas and Evan Neal, and center John Michael Schmitz were other frontline players who missed multiple games.

Despite the lineup shuffling, the Giants scored 25, 25, and 27 points in their final three games - against playoff teams Philadelphia and the Los Angeles Rams - three of their five highest point totals of the season.

Working with Kafka, a former quarterback, rookie Tommy DeVito started six games in Jones' absence and won half of them, leading the Giants to victories at Washington and in home games vs. New England and Green Bay. DeVito was the first Giants rookie quarterback to win three consecutive starts since Phil Simms won four in a row in 1979. He was just the third undrafted rookie quarterback since the 1970 merger to win three starts in a season, joining Ed Rubbert, who won three strike-replacement games for Washington in 1987, and Pittsburgh's Devlin Hodges in 2019.

DeVito was selected NFC Offensive Player of the Week after leading the Giants to a Monday night victory vs. the Packers. He completed 17 of 21 passes (season-high 81%) for 158 yards, one touchdown, and no interceptions for a passer rating of 113.9 and added 10 rushing attempts for 71 yards. In the 74 seasons since the NFL began tracking starting quarterbacks in 1950, DeVito became the first starter in league history to complete at least 80% of his passes, rush for 70+ yards, commit no turnovers, and take no sacks.

The Giants' offense significantly improved in Kafka's first season as coordinator. The team's 365 points were 107 more than they scored in 2021. They averaged 333.9 yards a game, an increase of 46.6 yards per game. One year after averaging 99.3 rushing yards a game and 4.0 yards per carry, the Giants finished fourth in the NFL with 148.2 rushing yards a game and fifth with 4.8 yards a carry. Their 352 first downs were 53 more than the previous season.

Jones had his finest statistical seasons while leading the Giants to their first playoff berth in six years. He completed 317-of-472 passes for 3,205 yards, all career highs. His 15 touchdown passes were the second-highest total of his career, and his five interceptions were a career low. Jones' passer rating was a career-best 92.5 and his 67.16 completion percentage was a Giants' single-season record. Jones led the NFL and set a franchise record by throwing an interception on just 1.1% of his passes (five in 472 throws).

In addition, Jones rushed for a Giants quarterback-record 708 yards and seven touchdowns on 120 carries, all the second-highest totals on the team.

Before coming to the Giants, Kafka spent five seasons as an assistant coach on Andy Reid's staff with the Kansas City Chiefs, the last two as the team's quarterbacks coach and passing game coordinator.

During Kafka's tenure in Kansas City, the Chiefs were one of the NFL's most successful teams and deployed one of the league's most prolific offenses. Patrick Mahomes became an NFL most valuable player and Tyreek Hill, Travis Kelce and Mecole Hardman developed into elite receivers.

In 2021, the Chiefs advanced to the AFC Championship Game for the fourth consecutive year, a streak in which they advanced to two Super Bowls, winning one. Kansas City finished fourth in the NFL in scoring (28.2 points a game) third in total yardage (396.8) and fourth in passing yardage (281.8). Mahomes threw for 4,839 yards – his fourth consecutive 4,000-yard season - and 37 touchdowns against just 13 interceptions. Wide receiver Hill and tight end Kelce combined for 203 catches, 2,364 yards and 11 touchdowns in the regular season, while Hardman added 59 receptions 692 yards and two scores. The trio combined to score seven touchdowns in three postseason games.

The previous year, Mahomes threw for 4,740 yards and 38 touchdowns to become just the seventh player in NFL history to throw for 4,500+ passing yards and 35+ touchdown passes multiple times in his career. The Chiefs' passing game ranked first in the league in yards-per-game (303.4), third in average gain per pass play (7.48) and tied for third in passing touchdowns.

In 2019, Mahomes threw 26 touchdown passes despite missing multiple games due to injury, He concluded that season by rallying the Chiefs from a 10-point fourth-quarter deficit to defeat San Francisco in Super Bowl LIV for their first title in 50 years. At 24 years and 138 days old, Mahomes became the youngest quarterback to be named Super Bowl MVP.

In Kafka's first year coaching Kansas City's quarterbacks in 2018, Mahomes was voted the league's MVP after becoming only the second quarterback to pass for over 5,000 yards and 50 touchdown passes in a season.

Kafka served as an offensive quality control coach in his first year with the Chiefs in 2017, when he mentored Mahomes during the quarterback's rookie season.

In 2016, Kafka served as an offensive graduate assistant at his alma mater, Northwestern University. With Kafka's assistance, the Wildcats averaged 398.2 yards per game and 26.0 points per game, and defeated Pittsburgh, 31-24, in the New Era Pinstripe Bowl in Yankee Stadium.

Prior to becoming a coach, Kafka enjoyed a six-year NFL playing career, primarily as a backup quarterback and practice squad member with several teams.

Kafka was a fourth-round choice in the 2010 NFL Draft (122nd overall) by the Philadelphia Eagles, then coached by Reid, who has held the same position with the Chiefs since 2013. He played in four games, all with the 2011 Eagles (he completed four of seven passes vs. the Giants on Sept. 25). Kafka also did stints with New England, Tampa Bay, and Minnesota, where he spent his final season in 2015.

Kafka played in 30 games at Northwestern, where he completed 408 of 637 passes (64.1%) for 4,265 yards with 19 touchdowns. He set single-game records in both passing yards (532 vs. Auburn, 2010) and rushing yards by a quarterback (217 vs. Minnesota, 2008). Additionally, his 3,725 yards of total offense as a senior in 2009 stands as the second-most in program history.

A product of Chicago's St. Rita High School, Kafka earned a degree in communication studies from Northwestern.

Mike and his wife, Alli, have three children, Ashton, Jackson, and Camden.

SHANE BOWEN

DEFENSIVE COORDINATOR

Shane Bowen is in his second season as the Giants' defensive coordinator, a position he previously held for three years with the Tennessee Titans (2021-23). He was promoted to coordinator in 2021 after spending his first three seasons with the Titans as outside linebackers coach.

Under Bowen's guidance in 2024, the Giants defense tied for the third-most tackles for loss (96) and the eighth-most sacks (45) in the NFL. The last Giants defense recorded 45 or more sacks in a season was in 2014 (47). Through the first seven games, Bowen's defense recorded a league-leading 31 sacks, the second-most by a Giants team through seven games in franchise history. The Giants finished the season ranked third in the league in sacks per pass attempt, with an 8.95% mark. Defensive lineman Dexter Lawrence II was named to his third straight Pro Bowl after totaling a career-high 9.0 sacks in only 12 games.

In 2023, Bowen's defense ranked first in the NFL in red zone scoring (allowed touchdowns on 37.7% of opponent drives inside the 20), goal-to-go scoring (42.9% resulted in touchdowns), and third-down conversation rate in the red zone (23.4%). In addition, Tennessee's defense was seventh in the NFL in rushing defense, allowing 107.7 yards a game.

From 2021 to 2023, the Titans surrendered the fewest rushing yards in the NFL (89.7 per game) and a league-low 3.70 rushing yards per carry. They allowed 33 rushing touchdowns in that span; only the Baltimore Ravens and New England Patriots allowed fewer with 30 apiece. Tennessee's opponents scored 106 touchdowns from scrimmage in Bowen's three seasons as coordinator, the seventh-lowest total in the NFL.

Titans opponents averaged a league-low 80.7 rushing yards per game in 2021-22, when the defense allowed just two backs to run for 100 yards - one in each season.

In 2022, the Titans led the NFL in rushing defense for the first time since 2003, surrendering only 76.9 yards a contest, the second-best figure in franchise history (73.4 in 1960). That season, Tennessee ranked third in third-down defense, allowing a conversion rate of 34.2% (77 of 225). Bowen's unit succeeded despite using an NFL-high 40 players on defense, including 28 starters, the league's second-highest total.

In Bowen's first season as defensive coordinator in 2021, the Titans ranked second in the NFL in rushing defense (84.6 yards a game). Jacksonville's James Robinson was the only back that season to exceed 70 rushing yards against the Titans. Outside linebacker Harold Landry III (12.0 sacks) and defensive linemen Denico Autry (9.0 sacks) and Jeffery Simmons (8.5) were the NFL's only trio with at least eight sacks each. In the divisional playoffs, the Titans set a franchise postseason record and matched the NFL postseason record with nine sacks against the Cincinnati Bengals.

Landry, Simmons, and safety Kevin Byard were all named to the Pro Bowl following the 2021 campaign, with Byard adding first-team All-Pro honors. It was the first of two consecutive Pro Bowl nods for Simmons.

In 2020, Bowen added defensive play-caller to his responsibilities tutoring the outside linebackers. The Titans' defense ranked seventh in the NFL with 23 takeaways, including 15 interceptions, which ranked seventh in the league and were the most by the Titans since 2012 (19).

Bowen joined the Titans after spending two seasons with the Houston Texans as a defensive assistant. In 2017, despite being beset by key injuries, the Texans ranked fifth in third-down defense and set a franchise record for fewest yards per carry by opponents (3.97). The previous year, Bowen was part of a coaching staff that produced the NFL's top-ranked defense (301.3 yards allowed per game) for the first time in franchise history.

Bowen joined Kennesaw State University in 2013 as one of the first coaches to help launch the school's new football program. The team's inaugural season was 2015, and with Bowen serving as linebackers coach, the Owls went 6-5 in the Big South Conference.

Bowen spent the 2012 campaign as a defensive graduate assistant at Ohio State. He assisted with the defensive line, a unit that produced two first-team All-Big Ten selections, and the conference's Defensive Player of the Year, outside linebacker John Simon. The Buckeyes concluded the year with a 12-0 mark and ranked No. 3 nationally.

Bowen began his coaching career in 2009 as a student assistant at Georgia Tech after an injury ended his playing career during his junior season. He assisted with the linebackers before becoming an offensive graduate assistant, a position he held for two years.

A three-year letterman at outside linebacker for Georgia Tech, Bowen started 10 games and played in 38 consecutive games. He helped the Yellow Jackets win Atlantic Coast Conference Coastal Division titles in 2006 and 2008. The team also played in three consecutive bowl games.

Bowen, named to the Dean's List three times while at Georgia Tech, earned a Bachelor of Science degree in business management in 2009, and a master's degree in workforce development and education from Ohio State in 2014.

A native of Pickerington, Ohio, Shane and his wife, Courtney, have a daughter, Harper Belle, and a son, Brooks.

MICHAEL GHOBRIAL

SPECIAL TEAMS COORDINATOR

Michael Ghobrial is in his second season as the Giants' special teams coordinator. He spent 2021-23 as an assistant coordinator on the Jets' staff and before that was a special teams coordinator on the collegiate level for five years.

In Ghobrial's first season leading the Giants' special teams, two players earned NFC Special Teams Player of the Week honors. Isaiah Simmons was named the Week 5 recipient after he blocked Seattle's 47-yard game-tying field goal attempt. Wide receiver Bryce Ford-Wheaton caught the batted ball and returned it 60 yards for the clinching touchdown. Ihmir Smith-Marsette was the second Giant to earn the honor after he returned a kickoff 100 yards for a touchdown in the Week 17 victory over Indianapolis. Smith-Martsette's score marked the Giants' first kickoff return touchdown since Oct. 25, 2015.

In 2023, the Jets' kickoff coverage was the NFL's best, allowing an average of just 15.3 yards a return. Their opponents' 40.4-yard net punting average ranked seventh in the NFL. Kicker Greg Zuerlein made 35 of 38 field goal attempts, including five-of-six from 50+ yards, a .921 percentage, and scored 120 points. Rookie Xavier Gipson was second in the league with a 23.2-yard kickoff return average and tied for 12th with a 9.7-yard punt return average, including a game-winning 65-yard touchdown in the season opener vs. Buffalo. Ashtyn Davis was among the league leaders with 12 special teams tackles (nine solo) and forced and recovered a fumble.

The previous season, special teams captain Justin Hardee was selected to his first Pro Bowl after posting a career-high 14 tackles. He became just the sixth Jets special teamer to be selected to the Pro Bowl since 1970 and the only core special teamer. Two of the six were chosen during Ghobrial's tenure. Zuerlein kicked three of the four longest field goals in franchise history and became one of four Jets to convert multiple field goals of 55+ yards as a Jet.

In 2021, the Jets were the only team in the league to finish in the top five in both kickoff (27.4 yards) and punt return (12.1 yards) average. Wide receiver/return specialist Braxton Berrios was selected as an All-Pro after he led the NFL with a 30.4-yard kickoff return average and finished second with a 13.4-yard punt return average.

Prior to joining the Jets, Ghobrial served as the special teams coordinator at Washington State (2020), Hawai'i (2018-19) and Tarleton State (2016-17). Following his first season at Tarleton State, he spent training camp with the Detroit Lions as part of the Bill Walsh Diversity Coaching Fellowship.

Ghobrial began his coaching career at his alma mater, UCLA, first as an undergrad assistant (2009-10), then a quality control coach (2011) and finally as a graduate assistant (2012-13). Following his time with the Bruins, he coached at Syracuse (2014) and Colorado Mesa (2015), serving as the team's co-special teams coordinator in addition to coaching the defensive line and outside linebackers.

Ghobrial played defensive end for two seasons at UCLA, where he earned his bachelor's degree in history and a master's degree in social science and comparative education.

LAURA YOUNG

DIRECTOR OF COACHING OPERATIONS

Laura Young, the first woman to hold a coaching position in Giants history, is in her fourth season as the team's director of coaching operations. She has 21 years of NFL experience and is involved in every aspect of the football operations from devising team schedules to assisting on the practice field during the week and on the gameday sideline.

When Brian Daboll was named the Giants coach in January 2022, one of his first moves was to hire Young as his top assistant.

Young came to the Giants from the Buffalo Bills, where she served under two head coaches and worked alongside Daboll for four years and Joe Schoen, now the Giants' general manager, for five.

She joined the Bills in 2015 working under Rex Ryan as the manager of football administration services/assistant to the head coach. Sean McDermott replaced Ryan in 2017 and in April of that year, Young transitioned to the player development department. In that role, she worked closely with coaches and players as they transitioned into the NFL and Buffalo area, helped develop player career, leadership and professional growth, worked with the women's association and was involved in other operational roles for players, coaches and their families. In addition, during the 2020 and 2021 seasons, she served as the Bills' COVID-19 protocol coordinator.

Prior to joining the Bills, Young spent six seasons with the Jets when Ryan was the team's head coach. She served as the assistant to the head coach from 2009-13 before moving to the personnel department as manager of football administrative services for the 2014 season.

Young entered the NFL in 2004 with the Baltimore Ravens as the executive assistant to the vice president of business ventures and the team president. She remained in that position through the 2008 season.

Prior to embarking on her football career, Young worked in accounting, coached high school athletics and taught special education.

Young has a bachelor's degree in sports medicine from the University of the Pacific.

SHEA TIERNEY

OFFENSIVE PASSING GAME COORDINATOR/ QUARTERBACKS COACH

Shea Tierney is in his fourth season as the Giants' quarterbacks coach and his second with the additional title of offensive passing game coordinator.

2024 marked Tierney's fourth season leading the Giants quarterbacks and first season owning the title of offensive passing game coordinator. For the second consecutive year, the Giants started three different quarterbacks in Daniel Jones, Tommy DeVito and Drew Lock.

In Week 17, Lock led the Giants to a 45-33 win over the Colts after he threw for 309 yards, four touchdowns and zero interceptions on 17-of-23 passing (73.9%). He set a new career-high with a 155.3 passer rating. He became just the fifth player in NFL history with 300+ passing yards, 4+ passing touchdowns, 1+ rushing touchdown and a passer rating higher than 155 in a single game.

DeVito appeared in three games and made two starts in 2024. DeVito finished the 2024 season owning the second-most consecutive pass attempts (183) without an interception in the NFL, which is also the longest streak by a Giant since the 1970 merger.

In 2023, Tierney led a position group that cycled through three starting quarterbacks in Jones, Tyrod Taylor, and DeVito. A rookie free agent, DeVito improved enough under Tierney's coaching to start six games, winning three.

DeVito led the Giants to victories at Washington and in home games vs. New England and Green Bay to become the first Giants rookie quarterback to win three consecutive starts since Phil Simms won four in a row in 1979. He was just the third undrafted rookie quarterback since the 1970 merger to win three starts in a season, joining Ed Rubbert, who won three strike-replacement games for Washington in 1987, and Pittsburgh's Devlin Hodges in 2019.

DeVito was selected NFC Offensive Player of the Week after leading the Giants to a Monday night victory vs. the Packers. He completed 17-of-21 passes (season-high 81%) for 158 yards, one touchdown, and no interceptions for a passer rating of 113.9 and added 10 rushing attempts for 71 yards. In the 74 seasons since the NFL began tracking starting quarterbacks in 1950, DeVito became the first starter in league history to complete at least 80% of his passes, rush for 70+ yards, commit no turnovers, and take no sacks.

He was the second undrafted rookie in the common-draft era (since 1967) with an 80+ completion percentage (minimum 15 attempts) in a game. DeVito's 71 rushing yards were the most by a Giants rookie quarterback in a game since 1960.

In 2022, Tierney's first year in his current position, Jones had the best season of his career, setting a Giants' single-season completion percentage record of 67.2 and leading the team to its first postseason berth in six years and an NFC Wild Card victory in Minnesota.

Jones threw for 3,205 yards and rushed for a Giants quarterback-record 708 yards to join Philadelphia's Jalen Hurts and Buffalo's Josh Allen as the only NFL quarterbacks with 3,000+ passing yards and 500+ rushing yards. Jones threw a career-low five interceptions; he led the NFL and set a franchise record by throwing an interception on just 1.1% of his passes (5 in 472 throws). He led the Giants from deficits of 10+ points to victory three times in the season's first six games, tying him for the highest total by a quarterback in the first six games of a season since 2000.

Prior to joining the Giants, Tierney spent four years working with Brian Daboll on the Buffalo Bills' staff, the first two as an offensive assistant and the last two as the assistant quarterbacks coach.

In those two seasons, Allen was one of the NFL's most productive and successful quarterbacks. The Bills were 27-11 combined in the regular season and postseason, won two AFC East titles and advanced to the 2020 conference championship game. In those 38 games, Allen threw for 10,405 yards and 87 touchdowns. He finished second in the NFL Most Valuable Player voting in 2020.

Tierney joined the Bills in 2018 after spending the previous two seasons as an offensive analyst for the University of Alabama, which was 27-2 when he was on the staff. With the Crimson Tide, he worked closely with Billy Napier, the wide receivers coach in Tierney's first season, who is now the head coach at the University of Florida. In his second season at Alabama, Tierney worked under Daboll, who was the offensive coordinator when the Crimson Tide won the 2017 national championship.

Tierney's first NFL experience was as a football analyst/coaching intern with the Philadelphia Eagles from 2013-15.

His initial coaching position was at North Carolina State as an offensive graduate assistant from 2011-12.

Tierney is a graduate of Neshaminy High School in Langhorne, Pa., and N.C. State. He is married to the former Emily Seng of Macungie, Pa. They have a daughter, Jordan.

Betts held his first offensive coordinator role at Boca Raton High School from 2014-15. Betts began his high school coaching career as the running backs coach at Coral Springs Christian Academy in 2013.

A 2nd round selection (56th overall) in 2002, Betts spent eight seasons (2002-09) with Washington and compiled 3,176 rushing yards and 13 rushing touchdowns on 776 attempts. He also caught 165 passes for 1,505 yards and three touchdowns. Betts played four seasons at Iowa (1998-2001) and led the Hawkeyes in rushing all four years he was on campus. His 830 career rushing attempts are the most by any Iowa player, while his 3,682 career rushing yards are the second-most in program history. Betts earned second-team All-Big Ten honors in 2000 and 2001 after surpassing the 1,000-yard mark in both of those seasons.

Betts earned his bachelor's degree from Iowa in 2001. A native of Blue Springs, Mo., Betts and his wife, Shatarah, have five daughters and one son.

CARMEN BRICILLO

OFFENSIVE LINE COACH

Carmen Bricillo, who has been in the NFL for seven of his 21-year coaching career, is in his second season as the Giants' offensive line coach.

In his first season as the offensive line coach for the Giants, Bricillo led a unit that allowed 48 sacks, the fewest by a Giants team since 2021 (38) and a significant decrease from the 85 allowed in 2023. In Weeks 17 and 18, the Giants line did not allow any sacks, making it the first time since 2021 that the offense did not give up a sack in back-to-back games. The Giants achieved this despite starting 10 different offensive line combinations (tied for the most in the league) throughout the season due to injuries.

Bricillo spent the 2022 and 2023 seasons as the line coach of the Las Vegas Raiders. Only 11 teams allowed fewer sacks in 2023 than the Raiders, whose quarterbacks were sacked 40 times. On Dec. 14, the Raiders set a franchise record for points in a 63-21 rout of the Los Angeles Chargers.

In 2022, despite starting seven different offensive line combinations and not having a consistent front five until Week 5, Bricillo led an offensive line unit that only allowed 35 sacks, tied for the ninth fewest in the NFL. Bricillo's unit helped the Raiders rush for 2,059 yards, their most in a single season since 2011. Raiders rushers were stuffed for a loss or no gain an NFL-low only 68 times, the fewest in the NFL. Josh Jacobs led the NFL in rushing with 1,653 yards.

Bricillo began his NFL coaching career with the New England Patriots in 2019, serving as a coaching assistant before being promoted to offensive line coach in 2020-21. During Bricillo's three years in New England, the Patriots earned one AFC East title and two playoff berths.

In 2021, Bricillo helped the Patriots finish eighth in the NFL in rushing yards per game (126.5) and sixth in points per game (27.2). Bricillo's line helped Damien Harris, set career highs with 202 carries for 929 yards and 15 touchdowns. Collectively, the Patriots recorded 24 rushing touchdowns, tied for the third most in franchise history.

Bricillo's group helped the Patriots finished fourth in the NFL with 146.6 rushing yards per game in 2020, the franchise's highest figure since 1983.

From 2010-18, Bricillo spent nine years coaching the offensive line at Youngstown State. During his time with the program, Bricillo coached 15 All-Missouri Valley Conference selections and the Penguins advanced to the 2016 NCAA FCS National Championship Game.

Prior to his time at Youngstown State, Bricillo spent the 2009 season as an offensive assistant coach at Illinois and worked at Akron as director of video services in 2006 and a coaching assistant from 2007-08. Bricillo helped with the offensive line with Illinois and worked with the tackles and tight ends as a coaching assistant at Akron.

Bricillo began his collegiate coaching career at his alma mater, Duquesne, as the offensive line coach in 2005. The Dukes had a 7-3 record and won a conference title that season, and four of Bricillo's linemen earned all-conference honors.

Prior to joining the staff at Duquesne, Bricillo spent two seasons as an assistant coach at Indiana Area High School.

Bricillo is a native of native of Shelocta, Pa. He played center at Duquesne, where he was selected first-team all-conference in 1995 and 1996. Bricillo earned his bachelor's degree in business administration from Duquesne and a master's degree in sports science and coaching from Akron.

TROY BROWN

OFFENSIVE ASSISTANT/ MINORITY COACHING FELLOW

Troy Brown, a three-time Super Bowl Champion (2001, '03 and '04) with the New England Patriots, is entering his first season on the Giants' staff as an offensive assistant and minority coaching fellow.

Brown spent the 2024 season in a skill-development – kick/punt returners role in New England. Under Brown's guidance, Marcus Jones ranked third in the NFL with 386 punt return yards. Among players with at least 10 punt returns, Jones' 14.8 average was the second-highest in the league. Overall, the Patriots punt return unit ranked second in the league with a 14.2 return average and third in total punt return yards (427).

Across six seasons in New England, Brown worked closely with two first-team All-Pro punt returners. In 2022, Jones earned All-Pro honors after leading the league in punt return yards (362 yards) and owning the longest punt return of the season (84-yard return vs. the Jets in Week 11) In 2020, Gunner Olszewski was named first-team All-Pro after averaging a league-leading 17.3 yards per return.

Brown began coaching in 2019 in an NFL Minority Coaching Fellowship position with the New England Patriots while also serving as the assistant wide receivers coach. In Brown's role, he primarily worked with returners but also held roles coaching running backs (2020) and wide receivers (2021-23). During his tenure in New England, Brown oversaw the development of Jakobi Meyers, who posted back-to-back seasons with 800+ receiving yards in 2021 and 2022.

An eighth-round selection (198th overall) by the Patriots in 1993, Brown spent his entire 15-year playing career in New England. Brown played in 192 games (70 starts) and caught 557 passes for 6,366 yards and 31 touchdowns. He also rushed 29 times for 178 yards. On special teams, Brown returned 252 punts for 2,625 yards and three touchdowns and 87 kickoffs for 1,862 yards. Among Patriot franchise rankings, Brown is first in punt return yards, third in receptions and fifth in receiving yards. Towards the end of his career, Brown contributed on defense, recording 18 tackles, five passes defensed and three interceptions. A three-time Super Bowl champion, Brown was inducted into the Patriots Hall of Fame in 2012.

Born in Barnwell, S.C., Brown attended Marshall University, where he majored in computer science. He is the father of four sons: Sir'mon, Saanjay, Skylar and Sylas. He is engaged to his fiancé, Ana Barros.

JAMES FERENTZ

ASSISTANT OFFENSIVE LINE COACH

James Ferentz, who retired as an NFL player in February after a 10-year career with the Houston Texans, Denver Broncos and New England Patriots, is in his second season as the Giants' assistant offensive line coach. He assists offensive line coach Carmen Bricillo, who was his line coach with the Patriots in 2020-21.

2024 marked Ferentz's first season as a coach in the NFL. In his role, Ferentz helped mentor an offensive line that allowed 48 sacks in 2024, a significant decrease from the 85 allowed in 2023. In Weeks 17 and 18, the Giants line did not allow any sacks, making it the first time since 2021 that the offense did not give up a sack in back-to-back games.

In his 10 seasons, Ferentz played in 61 regular-season games. He was a member of two Super Bowl-winning teams, the 2015 Broncos and the 2018 Patriots.

Ferentz finished college in 2013 and spent a year out of football before being signed by the Houston Texans in the 2014 offseason. He spent that season on the Texans' practice squad. Ferentz was waived by Houston on Sept. 5, 2015, and was awarded the following day to the Broncos. That year, he played in 14 games for a Denver team that won Super Bowl 50 in Peyton Manning's final season.

At the University of Iowa, Ferentz played for his father, Kirk Ferentz, the Hawkeyes' head coach since 1998. He played in 39 games, including starts in each of his last 38 contests, and was named second-team All-Big Ten center as a senior.

Ferentz was named first-team all-state as a junior and senior at Iowa City High School, where he helped his team advance to the state playoffs three consecutive years. He also lettered four times in wrestling, finishing seventh in the 2006 state tournament and second in 2008.

MIKE GROH

WIDE RECEIVERS COACH

Mike Groh, who has 25 years of collegiate and NFL coaching experience, is in his fourth season as the Giants' wide receivers coach.

In his third year on staff, Groh mentored first-round draft selection (6th overall pick) Malik Nabers, who set numerous rookie records in his debut season. Nabers recorded 109 receptions, 1,204 receiving yards and seven touchdowns. His 109 receptions were the most by any rookie wide receiver in NFL history and set a new Giants franchise record, surpassing Steve Smith's 107 receptions in 2009. Nabers became the second rookie in franchise history to eclipse 1,000 receiving yards in a season (also Odell Beckham Jr. in 2014).

Wide receiver Wan'Dale Robinson set all-new career highs during the 2024 season, producing 93 receptions, 699 receiving yards and three touchdowns. Robinson's 93 receptions are the fifth-most in single-season franchise history. The 2024 season marked the first time in franchise history a Giants duo (Nabers and Robinson) recorded 90-plus receptions each.

In 2023, Groh coached a mostly young corps of receivers that included Robinson, who led the team with 60 catches; Darius Slayton, the Giants' leader with 770 yards, who also had a team-high-tying four touchdown receptions; and rookie Jalin Hyatt, who averaged a team-best 16.2-yards-per-catch.

The previous season, Groh's group overcame the early season loss of Sterling Shepard and helped quarterback Daniel Jones complete a franchise record 67.2% of his passes. Slayton led the Giants with 724 receiving yards and mid-season acquisition Isaiah Hodgins tied for the team lead with four touchdown receptions and added a score in the team's NFC Wild Card victory in Minnesota.

Groh was the receivers coach of the Indianapolis Colts in 2020-21. In 2021, Michael Pittman, Jr., caught 88 passes for 1,082 yards and six touchdowns. The previous season, the Colts finished 11-5 as wideouts T.Y. Hilton, Zach Pascal and Pittman combined for 140 receptions, 1,894 yards and 11 touchdowns.

Groh was the Philadelphia Eagles' offensive coordinator from 2018-19 after spending his debut season with the team as the receivers coach. In his first season as coordinator, Philadelphia finished with the NFL's seventh-ranked passing offense (267.2 yards a game) and Zach Ertz set the NFL record for receptions by a tight end with 116.

In 2017, wideouts Nelson Agholor and Alshon Jeffrey totaled 119 catches, 1,557 yards and 17 touchdowns. They added 27 receptions in the three-game postseason that culminated with the Eagles defeating New England in Super Bowl LII. The Eagles were the only team with two wide receivers that produced eight or more receiving touchdowns.

Groh coached the wideouts of the Los Angeles Rams in 2016 and the Chicago Bears from 2013-15, when his group included Pro Bowlers Brandon Marshall and Jeffrey.

Groh began his college coaching career at his alma mater, the University of Virginia, from 2001-08. He was first the receivers coach, added the quarterbacks in 2003, and coached them exclusively in 2004-05. Groh was the team's offensive coordinator from 2006-08.

In 2009, he moved to Alabama as a graduate assistant before spending a year at Louisville coaching quarterbacks. Groh then returned to Alabama for a two-year stint as receivers coach and recruiting coordinator. The Crimson Tide won the national championship all three years Groh was on Nick Saban's staff.

Groh's father, Al, was a Giants assistant coach from 1989-91 and was the defensive coordinator in the last of those seasons. Mike Groh's first coaching job was as an assistant with the Jets when his father was the head coach in 2000.

Mike Groh was Virginia's starting quarterback in 1994-95 when the Cavaliers were a combined 18-7 and won two bowl games. In 1997, he played in the World League with the Rhein Fire.

Groh's brother, Matt, is the New England Patriots' director of player personnel.

Under Hall's mentorship, Thomas ranked third overall in the NFL with 1,282 receiving yards and led all rookies with 10 touchdown receptions. Thomas also set Jaguars rookie records in receptions (87), receiving yards and yards per catch (14.7). Diggs was named First-Team All-Pro in 2020 after leading the league with 127 receptions and 1,535 yards. Cole Beasley also earned Second-Team All-Pro honors in 2020.

Hall played wide receiver in the NFL from 2010-13, beginning his career with the Philadelphia Eagles (2010-11). Hall also spent time with the San Francisco 49ers (2012) and Kansas City Chiefs (2013). During his career, Hall rushed 12 times for 42 yards and caught 16 passes for 155 yards and two touchdowns.

TIM KELLY

TIGHT ENDS COACH

Tim Kelly, who has twice been an offensive coordinator in his 11-year NFL coaching career, is in his second season as the Giants' tight ends coach.

In his first season leading the Giants tight ends group, Kelly mentored rookie Theo Johnson who caught 29 passes for 331 yards and one touchdown in 12 games. Johnson's 331 receiving yards are the fifth-most by a Giants rookie tight end in franchise history. Johnson's lone touchdown grab came on a 35-yard pass vs. Washington in Week 9. It was the longest touchdown reception by a Giants tight end since Evan Engram caught a 75-yard touchdown at Tampa Bay (Sept. 22, 2019). Johnson's rookie campaign was cut short due to a foot injury suffered in Week 13 at Dallas.

Kelly spent the previous two seasons (2022-23) with the Tennessee Titans, the first as the team's passing game coordinator and 2023 as the coordinator. Prior to arriving in Tennessee, he spent eight seasons with the Houston Texans, including three campaigns as their offensive coordinator.

In 2023, Kelly coached an offense that started rookie Will Levis at quarterback for nine games. In his first NFL action, Levis threw four touchdown passes in a victory against Atlanta. Derrick Henry ran for 1,167 yards and 12 touchdowns, and DeAndre Hopkins caught a team-high 75 passes and accounted for seven scores.

The previous season, Kelly's duties included work with the Titans' tight ends, putting together the first- and second-down passing game, and helping with the offensive plan in the red zone. The team's tight ends collectively ranked seventh in the NFL at their position with 952 receiving yards.

Kelly entered the NFL in 2014 as the Texans' offensive quality control coach and added assistant offensive line duties in 2016. He served as tight ends coach from 2017 to 2018, and in 2019, he was promoted to offensive coordinator, a title he held through 2021 while also coaching quarterbacks in 2020.

During his tenure, the Texans won four AFC South titles (2015-16, 2018-19).

In 2021, third-round rookie quarterback Davis Mills played in 13 games with 11 starts and set a franchise rookie record with 2,664 passing yards, completing 263 of 394 attempts (66.8%) for 16 touchdowns, 10 interceptions and an 88.8 passer rating.

The Texans' offense led the NFL in yards per reception (12.6) and yards per play (6.4) in 2020, when quarterback Deshaun Watson topped the league with a franchise-season record 4,823 passing yards.

In Kelly's first season as offensive coordinator in 2019, the 10-6 Texans won the AFC South title. Kelly worked several players into the offense, including tackle Laremy Tunsil, wide receiver Kenny Stills, and running backs Duke Johnson and Carlos Hyde, who produced his only career 1,000-yard season. Tunsil, Watson, and Hopkins were all selected to the Pro Bowl. Houston finished the season with a 3,500-yard passer (Watson), a 1,000-yard rusher (Hyde), and a 1,000-yard receiver (Hopkins) for the first time since 2012.

Kelly began his coaching career in 2008-09 at Illinois-Wesleyan, where he was the defensive line coach for the 2009 CCIW Championship team that ranked ninth among all defenses at the NCAA Division III level. He also coached two first-team all-conference selections.

Kelly was the defensive coordinator, defensive line coach, and recruiting coordinator at Minnesota State-Moorhead in 2010, and a graduate assistant at Ball State in 2011 and Penn State in 2012-13.

Kelly played defensive tackle at Eastern Illinois, starting all 48 games in his collegiate career, and serving as the team's captain in 2007. He was named to the Capital One Academic All-District V Team in 2006 and 2007. Kelly received his bachelor's degree in sports administration from Eastern Illinois in 2008 and his master's degree in sport management from Illinois State in 2010.

A native of Chicago Heights, Ill., Kelly starred at Marian Catholic High School, where he is a member of the East Suburban Catholic Conference Hall of Fame.

His brother, Dennis, was an NFL offensive lineman for 12 seasons.

Kelly and his wife, Katie, have two daughters, Norah and Quinn.

Before his time with the Jets, Manuel was the defensive backs coach for the Philadelphia Eagles in 2020.

Manuel served as the defensive coordinator of the Atlanta Falcons from 2017-18 after spending the 2015 and 2016 seasons as the secondary coach/senior defensive assistant on staff. During his time as the defensive coordinator, Atlanta had two players (OLB Deion Jones and FS Keanu Neal) voted to the 2017 Pro Bowl.

While on Atlanta's staff in 2016, Manuel made a coaching appearance in Super Bowl LI after helping lead Atlanta to an 11-5 regular season record, an NFC South Division title and a first-round bye in the playoffs.

Manuel began his NFL coaching career as a special teams assistant with the Seattle Seahawks in 2012. He later was named a defensive assistant in 2013 and then an assistant secondary coach in 2014. In his three seasons in Seattle, the team appeared in two Super Bowls, including Super XLVIII, when Seattle defeated the Denver Broncos, 43-8.

A sixth-round selection (181st overall) by the Cincinnati Bengals, Manuel played eight seasons (2002-09) in the NFL. He played in 116 games (58 starts) and totaled 332 tackles, 16 passes defensed and two interceptions. Manuel played for the Bengals, Seahawks, Packers, Panthers, Broncos and Lions.

MIKE ADAMS

ASSISTANT SECONDARY COACH

Mike "Pops" Adams, a two-time Pro Bowl player, is in his third season on the Giants' staff and his second season as the assistant secondary coach, a position he held with the Chicago Bears in 2021.

The 2024 season marked Adams' first season as the assistant secondary coach for the Giants. In his role, Adams helped cornerback Dru Phillips rank ninth among all rookies in total tackles (71) while also producing seven tackles for loss, two forced fumbles and one interception. Pro Football Focus named Phillips the 13th-best rookie from his draft class and ranked him the second-best cornerback among 2024 rookies.

Adams was an assistant special teams coach in 2023, when the Giants' punt team finished seventh in the NFL, allowing an average return of 6.9 yards. Gunner Olszewski's 94-yard touchdown vs. the Rams was the Giants' first punt return touchdown since 2015.

Adams entered the NFL as an undrafted free agent from the University of Delaware and played 16 seasons in the league, including stints with the San Francisco 49ers (2004-06), Cleveland Browns (2007-11), Denver Broncos (2012-13), Indianapolis Colts (2014-16), Carolina Panthers (2017-18) and Houston Texans (2019).

Adams appeared in 228 regular-season games with 149 starts and was credited with 869 tackles (653 solo), 90 passes defensed, 30 interceptions, 15 tackles for loss and 13 forced fumbles. He also played in 10 postseason games with eight starts, including one in the Broncos' Super Bowl XLVIII loss to Seattle in MetLife Stadium.

Adams had his best statistical seasons with the Colts in 2014 and 2015, when he was twice selected to the Pro Bowl while totaling 162 tackles, 10 interceptions for 87 yards and a touchdown, five forced fumbles and three fumble recoveries.

Adams was born in Paterson, N.J. and starred at Passaic County Technical Institute, located just 16 miles from MetLife, and helped lead the football team to the 1998 New Jersey Group 4 title.

At the University of Delaware, Adams played in 43 games with 23 starts and collected 213 tackles and 11 interceptions. He was a co-captain on UD's 2003 Division 1-AA NCAA championship team. Adams' 228 NFL games are a record for a Delaware alumnus.

CHARLIE BULLEN

OUTSIDE LINEBACKERS COACH

Charlie Bullen, whose 18 years of coaching experience include 12 in the NFL, is in his second season as the Giants' outside linebackers coach.

In his first season with the Giants, Bullen mentored a unit with three players (Brian Burns, Kayvon Thibodeaux and Azeez Ojulari) who recorded 5+ sacks each. Burns recorded a team-leading 17 tackles for loss to go along with 8.5 sacks and eight passes defensed. His 8.5 sacks tied Olivier Vernon (2016) for the second-most by a player in their first season with the Giants. As a unit, the Giants ranked third in the NFL in sacks per pass attempt, with an 8.95% mark and finished tied for eighth with 45 sacks.

In 2023, Bullen coached the University of Illinois' outside backers, including Seth Coleman, who was selected All-Big Ten honorable mention after leading the Illini with nine tackles for loss and 6.0 sacks, the second-highest total in league games. Each of Coleman's 6.0 sacks came in road games, the most road sacks by any Power-5 player in the regular season. Fellow outside linebackers Gabe Jacas and Alec Bryant totaled 110 tackles, 16.5 tackles for loss, and 10.5 sacks on the season.

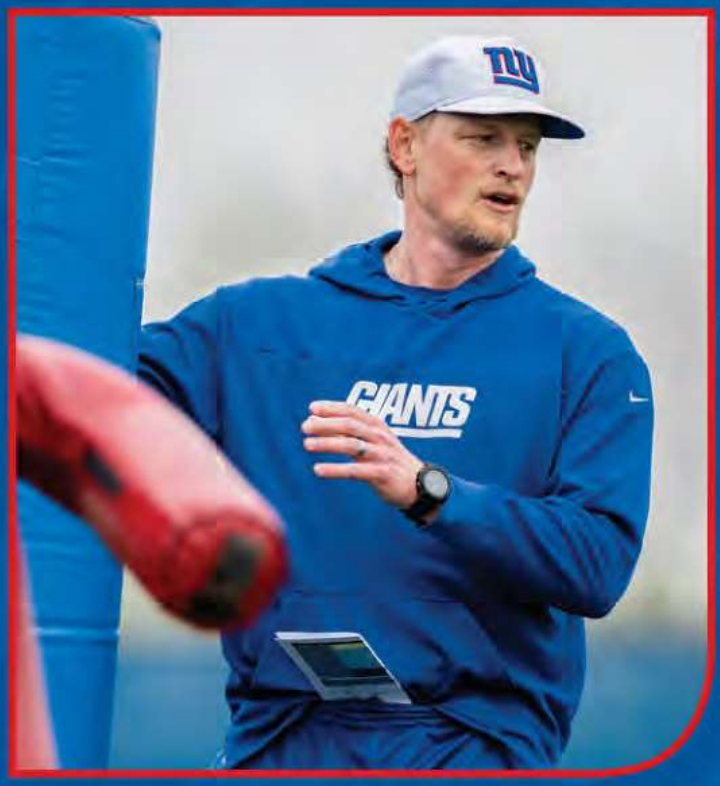
Bullen was the Arizona Cardinals' outside linebackers coach from 2020-22 after originally joining their staff as assistant linebackers in 2019. He also spent seven years as an assistant with the Miami Dolphins.

The Cardinals ranked fifth in the NFL with 89 sacks in the 2020-21 seasons, including 50 by the outside backers position. During that span, Cardinals outside linebackers Markus Golden, Chandler Jones, and Haason Reddick posted 10+ sack seasons.

In 2021, Jones was elected to the Pro Bowl after he tallied 10.5 sacks and became the franchise's all-time sacks leader with 67.0. Jones tied the Cards' franchise single-game record with 5.0 sacks in a win at Tennessee. Jones (10.5) and Golden (11.0) each had double-digit sacks in 2021, just the fourth time in franchise history the Cardinals had multiple players with 10+ sacks in a season.

The previous season, posted a team-high 12.5 sacks, 15 tackles for loss, 16 quarterback hits, and six forced fumbles under Bullen. He was the only player in the NFL in 2020 to rank in the top five in sacks (4th), tackles for loss (3rd), and forced fumbles (2nd).

In 2019, Jones finished second in voting for the NFL Defensive Player of the Year in 2019, was named first-team All-Pro, and was selected to the Pro Bowl after setting a franchise record with 19.0 sacks to go along with a career-high eight forced fumbles.



Prior to joining the Cardinals, Bullen spent seven seasons with the Miami Dolphins, including his final three seasons in Miami (2016-18) as the Dolphins assistant linebackers coach. He originally joined the Dolphins in 2012 as a defensive assistant before being promoted to assistant defensive line coach in 2013, where he coached for three seasons (2013-15). He worked under defensive coordinator Vance Joseph, who went on to be the Cardinals defensive coordinator while Bullen was with Arizona.

Before working with the Dolphins, Bullen coached for three seasons (2009-11) as a graduate assistant working with defensive backs at his alma mater, the University of Iowa. He also served as a student assistant for two seasons (2007-08), working with Iowa's quarterbacks while working on his bachelor's degree. In 2006, he served as a volunteer assistant at Iowa City High School working with the team's quarterbacks.

Before attending Iowa, Bullen played quarterback at Harper (Ill.) College and St. Norbert (Wis.) College. He earned a bachelor's degree from Iowa in finance in 2008 and a master's degree in sports management in 2011.

Bullen is a native of Palatine, Illinois, and a graduate of Fremd High School. He was a high school teammate of quarterback Scott Tolzien, who later played for the Green Bay Packers and Indianapolis Colts.

Bullen and his wife, Megan, have three daughters, Elle, Berkley, and Nellie, and a son, James.

JEFF BURRIS

CORNERBACKS COACH

Jeff Burris is in first season as the Giants' cornerbacks coach. This is Burris' second stint in the NFL after working as the assistant defensive backs coach with the Miami Dolphins from 2013-15.

Burris joins the Giants' staff after spending the 2024 season as the co-defensive coordinator and safeties coach at Louisiana Tech. Under Burris' guidance, the Bulldogs allowed the fewest passing yards per game (172.8) and the second-fewest points per game (21.0) in Conference USA.

From 2021-23, Burris mentored the cornerback group at Louisiana. Every season Burris was on staff, the Ragin' Cajuns appeared in a bowl game and in 2021, Louisiana totaled a program-record 13-win season and captured the Sun Belt Conference Championship. That season, Louisiana's defense allowed the third-lowest completion percentage in the nation (53.1%) and the 11th-fewest points per game (18.3).

Burris first coached at Louisiana Tech from 2018-20, where he mentored two future NFL draftees in Larius Sneed and Amik Robertson. In Burris' three seasons with the Bulldogs, they made three consecutive bowl appearances and posted a 10-win season in 2019.

In 2017, Burris served as the defensive backs coach at Northern Iowa following one year as a defensive analyst at Notre Dame, his alma mater, in 2016.

Burris' first job in the NFL was as a defensive assistant for the Miami Dolphins from 2013-14, before he was named the assistant defensive backs coach in 2015. While Burris was on staff, defensive back Brent Grimes made three consecutive Pro Bowls and had the third-most passes defensed (44) and fourth-most interceptions (13) in the NFL during that three-year span. In 2015, Reshad Jones joined Grimes at the Pro Bowl after recording a career-high five interceptions and 10 passes defensed.

Before his time with the Dolphins, Burris spent one season at UMass (2012) and with the Sacramento Mountain Lions of the United Football League in 2011. In both positions, he oversaw the cornerbacks.

A first-round selection (27th overall) by the Buffalo Bills in the 1994 draft, Burris spent 10 seasons in the NFL. After four seasons in Buffalo, Burris played four seasons for the Indianapolis Colts (1998-2002) and two seasons for the Cincinnati Bengals (2002-03). Across his 10-year career, Burris played in 144 games (120 starts) and recorded 529 tackles, 101 passes defensed, 19 interceptions, six forced fumbles, 5.0 sacks and three fumble recoveries.

A native of Rock Hill, S.C., Burris played four seasons at Notre Dame (1990-93) on both sides of the ball, primarily seeing action at defensive back. Burris is married to the former Lisa Dian.

BRYAN COX

ASSISTANT DEFENSIVE LINE COACH

Bryan Cox, a Super Bowl winner and three-time Pro Bowler as a player who previously coached with five other NFL teams, is in his fourth season as the Giants' assistant defensive line coach. He assists Andre Patterson in mentoring the Giants' defensive line.

In his three seasons with the Giants, Cox was instrumental in the development of Dexter Lawrence II, who has become one of the league's very best defensive linemen. Lawrence has been voted to three straight Pro Bowls (2022, '23 and '24) and selected as a second-team All-Pro in 2022 and 2023.

In 2024, Lawrence recorded a career-high and team-leading 9.0 sacks despite only playing in 12 games due to a season-ending elbow injury suffered in Week 13 at Dallas.

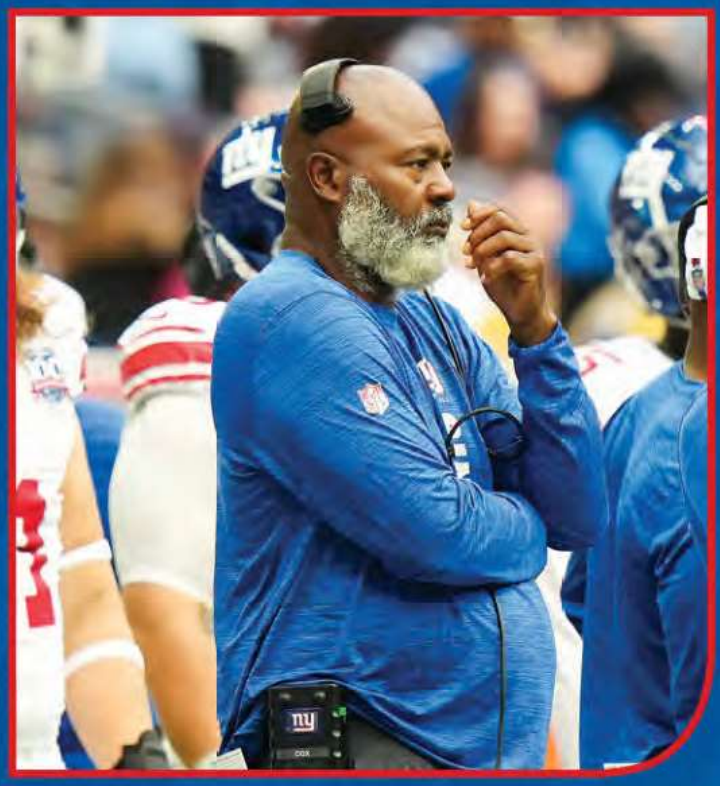
Before joining the Giants, Cox, 56, had last worked in the NFL as the Atlanta Falcons' defensive line coach from 2014-16. In his final season with the team, the Falcons won the NFC championship before losing to New England in overtime in Super Bowl LI.

From 2012-13, Cox coached the defensive front seven and served as the pass rush specialist for the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. Cox helped several players post career bests, including defensive tackle Gerald McCoy who totaled 14.0 sacks, 36 quarterback hits, and 24 tackles for loss in those two seasons and earned his first Pro Bowl selection in 2012.

Prior to joining the Buccaneers, Cox spent six seasons as an assistant coach with the Jets, Cleveland Browns, and Miami Dolphins.

In 2011, he helped the Dolphins finish in the top 10 in sacks with 41 while serving as the club's pass rush specialist. He joined the Dolphins after spending the 2009-10 seasons with the Browns as defensive line coach.

Cox began his coaching career as the assistant defensive line coach with the Jets from 2006-08. In his final season with the team, he helped the Jets' defense rank seventh in the NFL in both sacks (41) and rushing defense (94.9 yards per game).



Before becoming a coach, Cox played linebacker for five NFL teams for 12 years. He was selected by the Dolphins in the fifth round of the 1991 NFL Draft (113th overall) and spent his first five seasons in Miami. Cox was selected to the Pro Bowl in 1992, '94 and '95 when he was with the Dolphins.

Cox went on to play for the Chicago Bears (1996-97), Jets (1998-2000), and in New England and won a Super Bowl with the Patriots after the 2001 season. Cox finished his career in 2002 with the New Orleans Saints.

He played in 165 regular-season games with 144 starts and totaled 938 tackles (677 solo), 51.5 sacks, 14 fumble recoveries and four interceptions. Cox also played in 10 postseason games, including Super Bowl XXXVI.

A graduate of Western Illinois, Cox played for the Leathernecks from 1987-90 while earning his degree in mass communications.

Cox is a native of East St. Louis, Ill. He and his wife, Kim, have four daughters: Lavonda, Brittani, Chiquita and Kelli and one son, Bryan, Jr.

JOHN EGORUGWU

INSIDE LINEBACKERS COACH

John Egorugwu, who has 15 years of coaching experience, including nine in the NFL, is in his fourth season as the Giants' inside linebackers coach.

During his third season on staff, Egorugwu led Micah McFadden to his best season yet in 2024. McFadden recorded career highs in tackles (107) and sacks (3.0). Against New Orleans on December 8th, McFadden produced five tackles for loss, making him the second Giant since 1999 to record five or more in a game, joining Michael Strahan (vs. Washington, 12/7/2003). Rookie Darius Muasau played in 15 games (seven starts) due to injuries to McFadden and Bobby Okereke. In the season opener, Muasau recorded an interception, making him the first Giant since Niko Lalos (at Cincinnati, 11/29/2020) to intercept a pass in his NFL debut.

In 2023, Egorugwu's unit was among the team's most productive.

In Okereke's debut season with the Giants, he joined former teammate Xavier McKinney as the only NFL defensive players to play every snap (1,128). Okereke totaled a team-high 149 tackles (92 solo), which ranked ninth in the NFL and tied his single-season career-high for tackles, set the previous year in Indianapolis. Okereke had 11 tackles for loss and 10 passes defensed to join the Jets' Quincy Williams, Baltimore's Kyle Hamilton and Chargers' Khalil Mack as the only NFL players with double-digit totals in each category. Okereke recorded double-digit tackle totals in seven games.

McFadden started 14 games next to Okereke and finished third on the team with 101 tackles (63 solo). McFadden led the Giants and tied Tampa Bay's Antoine Winfield, Jr. for the NFL lead with four defensive fumble recoveries. He tied Kayvon Thibodeaux for the team lead with 12 tackles for loss, giving the Giants two linebackers with more than 100 tackles and at least 10 tackles for loss.

Egorugwu helped develop a constantly changing cast of linebackers into a productive and reliable group in 2022, one that helped the Giants earn their first playoff berth in six years. McFadden, a fifth-round draft choice, started seven games and contributed 58 tackles. 2.0 sacks and six tackles for loss.

Egorugwu spent the 2021 season as the linebackers coach at Vanderbilt University.

He was previously on the Buffalo Bills coaching staff for four years (2017-20), the last three with Brian Daboll, as a defensive quality control coach and assistant linebackers coach. He first coached in the NFL with the Baltimore Ravens from 2015-16 as a defensive assistant working primarily with the linebackers.

In 2020, the Bills returned to the AFC Championship Game for the first time since 1993. Egorugwu's work with the linebackers helped the team finish fifth in the league in opponent pass efficiency. Egorugwu helped Buffalo linebacker Tremaine Edmunds earn his first Pro Bowl selection in 2019 when the defense allowed just 298.3 yards a game. In 2018, the Bills' linebackers intercepted seven passes, tying them with the Giants for the most among the position group in the NFL.

During his two years with the Ravens, Egorugwu helped linebacker Elvis Dumervil to a 2015 Pro Bowl selection and linebacker C.J. Mosley to a Pro Bowl nod in 2016. Mosley and linebacker Zach Orr were also second-team All-Pro selections in 2016.

Before entering the NFL, Egorugwu coached the Missouri State wide receivers in 2015.

He spent three years as a graduate assistant at the University of Missouri, working with both the defense (2012) and offense (2013-14). During his tenure, the Tigers played in the Cotton Bowl and Citrus Bowl. Missouri claimed the SEC East Division title and played in the league's championship game in 2013 and 2014.

Egorugwu began his coaching career at his alma mater, William Jewell College, mentoring linebackers from 2010-11.

A linebacker for William Jewell, Egorugwu played in 29 games, collecting 156 tackles, 22.0 tackles for loss, 7.0 sacks and two interceptions during his career. As a senior, he tallied 84 tackles, 16.5 tackles for loss and 4.5 sacks.

Egorugwu received his bachelor's in accounting and business/management in 2007 and earned his master's from Missouri in educational and counseling psychology.

While Ferentz was at South Dakota, the Coyotes finished the 2023 and 2024 seasons ranked in the top five of the final FCS rankings, posting back-to-back 10-win seasons. In 2024, South Dakota captured a share of the Missouri Valley Football Conference title, the first in program history and made its first-ever appearance in the FCS semifinals.

Ferentz's first role in the NFL was as a coaching assistant with the Miami Dolphins from 2020-21; he was promoted in 2022 to the assistant linebackers coach. While Ferentz was on staff, Miami posted three consecutive seasons with a winning record, including a playoff berth in 2022, the first postseason appearance by the Dolphins since 2016.

Before his time in Miami, Ferentz spent two seasons (2018-19) as a defensive graduate assistant at Central Michigan. In 2019, the Chippewas won eight games and appeared in the MAC Championship game and the New Mexico Bowl.

Ferentz began his coaching career as a volunteer assistant at Iowa in 2017.

A native of Iowa City, Iowa, Ferentz attended Iowa, where he played offensive line and tight end from 2012-16. He is the son of long-time Iowa head coach Kirk Ferentz. His brother, James, is currently the assistant offensive line coach for the Giants.

Morgan began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at Illinois in 2023 before serving as the team's assistant linebackers coach in 2024, as the Fighting Illini posted a 10-3 record, tying the program's single season win record. Following a win in the Cheez-It Citrus Bowl over #14 South Carolina, Illinois finished the season ranked 20th in the College Football Playoff rankings.

Morgan played five seasons at Arkansas (2016-21), appearing in 58 games (22 starts) and recording 313 tackles, 23.5 tackles for loss, 4.5 sacks, two interceptions and one forced fumble. A native of Fort Smith, Ark., Morgan and his wife Sydnie have one son, Vic.

ANDRE PATTERSON

DEFENSIVE LINE COACH

Andre Patterson, whose more than four decades of coaching experience include 21 years in the NFL, is in his fourth season as the Giants' defensive line coach.

In his two seasons with the Giants, Patterson was instrumental in the development of Dexter Lawrence II, who has become one of the league's very best defensive linemen. In each of the last three seasons (2022, '23 and '24) Lawrence was voted to the Pro Bowl. In 2022 and '23, Lawrence was selected as a second-team All-Pro.

Lawrence set a new career-high with 9.0 sacks during the 2024 season, despite missing the last five games due to an elbow injury. Lawrence led the NFL in sacks through the first eight weeks of the season. Overall, the defense recorded 45 sacks, tied for the eighth-most in the league. Patterson was previously the Vikings' defensive line coach in 1998-99. He has coached at three levels, working five years as a high school coach and 15 years in the collegiate ranks in addition to his long tenure in the NFL.

In his second stint with Minnesota (2014-21), Patterson helped Danielle Hunter and Everson Griffen become two of the most productive defensive ends in the NFL. Hunter recorded 48.0 sacks prior to turning 25 years of age, an NFL record since sacks became an official stat in 1982 and became the youngest player (25 years and 40 days) to eclipse 50.0 career sacks. He had 14.5 sacks and was a Pro Bowler in both 2018 and 2019. Griffen was selected to four Pro Bowls playing for Patterson.

Patterson's first stint in Minnesota was in the 1998-99 seasons. He coached the defensive line during the Vikings' 15-1 season in 1998 when they lost to Atlanta in the NFC Championship. Patterson began his NFL career in 1997 when he joined the New England Patriots as a defensive assistant.

His only stint as a collegiate head coach came at Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo from 1994-96 when the team was 17-16. Patterson led his team to a league title in 1994 and was named American West Conference Coach of the Year. The 1994 season was Cal Poly's first in Division 1-AA.

In his first season with the Giants, Achord was key in mentoring two Giants who earned NFC Special Teams Player of the Week honors. Isaiah Simmons was named the Week 5 recipient after he blocked Seattle's Jason Myers 47-yard game-tying field goal attempt. Wide receiver Bryce-Ford Wheaton caught the batted ball and returned it 60 yards for the clinching touchdown. Ihmir Smith-Marsette was the second Giant to earn the honor after he returned a kickoff 100 yards for a touchdown in the Week 17 victory over Indianapolis.

In 2023, the Patriots finished third in the NFL with a 26.2-yard kickoff return average while their coverage team was sixth, allowing an average 20.6 yards. With punter Bryce Baringer leading the way, New England topped the NFL with 38 punts downed inside the 20-yard line. The Patriots joined the Houston Texans and New Orleans Saints as the only NFL teams to score two special teams touchdowns; New England scored on Jalen Reagor's 98-yard kickoff return vs. Buffalo and Cody Davis' fumble return at Denver. Brenden Schooler was selected to the 2023 NFLPA Players All-Pro as the core special teams player.

The previous season, Achord's unit ranked first in the NFL with 418 punt return yards and third with 1,274 total return yards Rookie Marcus Jones was the AP's first-team all-pro punt returner after he ranked second in total return yards (1,007) punt return average (10.7 yards) and first in punt return yards (362), and has the longest punt return (84 yards).

In 2020, the Patriots ranked No. 1 in Rick Gosselin's annual rankings of all 32 NFL teams' special teams. Special teamer Matthew Slater was selected to his 10th Pro Bowl and earned his third second-team all-pro honors. In 2020, the punt team ranked first in net punting and second in return yards allowed.

Punt returner Gunner Olszewski was named the NFL's first-team all-pro punt returner in 2020 after leading the league in punt return yards (346) and average (17.3 yards, including a 70-yard touchdown). Slater and punter Jake Bailey were selected to the Pro Bowl.

Achord joined the Patriots after five seasons with Southwest Mississippi Community College, where he served as the offensive, special teams, and recruiting coordinator, and coached quarterbacks, running backs and tight ends coach. In 2014, Achord's kickoff return unit ranked third and the punt return unit ranked second in the nation in return average.

Achord spent the 2010-11 seasons as a special teams graduate assistant and worked with the linebackers at the University of Southern Mississippi. In 2012, he was an offensive graduate assistant, working with the quarterbacks.

A four-year starter at free safety at Belhaven University, Achord served as a team captain in 2008 and 2009. He was a two-time Academic All-American honoree and twice named a Mid-South Conference Player of the Week. In addition, he was an All-Conference back in 2009 and an Honorable Mention back in 2007. In 2010, he participated in the NAIA Senior Classic.

Achord (pronounced AY-cord) is a 2009 graduate of Belhaven University in Mississippi with degrees in computer information science and sports administration. He received a master's degree in sports management from the University of Southern Mississippi in 2011. Achord is a native of Brookhaven, Miss.

Achord and his wife, Emily, have a son, Dawson, who was born in 2023.

STEPHEN THOMAS

ASSISTANT SPECIAL TEAMS COACH

Stephen Thomas, who has 18 years of coaching experience, including eight in the NFL, is in his third season as a Giants' assistant special teams coach.

In 2024, the Giants special teams unit had two players earn NFC Special Teams Player of the Week honors. Isaiah Simmons was named the Week 5 recipient after he blocked Seattle's Jason Myers 47-yard game-tying field goal attempt. Wide receiver Bryce-Ford Wheaton caught the batted ball and returned it 60 yards for the clinching touchdown. Ihmir Smith-Marsette was the second Giant to earn the honor after he returned a kickoff 100 yards for a touchdown in the Week 17 victory over Indianapolis.

In his first season with the Giants in 2023, the punt team finished seventh in the NFL, allowing an average return of 6.9 yards. Gunner Olszewski's 94-yard touchdown vs. the Rams was the Giants' first punt return touchdown since 2015.

Prior to joining the Giants, Thomas spent four seasons as the Detroit Lions' defensive quality control coach.

He joined the Lions in 2019 after spending six of the previous seven seasons (2012-14, 2016-18) at Princeton University, including the last two as the Tigers' special teams coordinator/inside linebackers coach.

In his final season at Princeton in 2018, Thomas coached a pair of first-team All-Ivy League linebackers (Mark Fossati and Tom Johnson). The Tigers' defense was fourth in the nation in points allowed and seventh in rushing defense. Thomas was Princeton's inside linebackers coach in 2016 when the Tigers led the league in scoring, total and rushing defense.

In between his two stints at Princeton, Thomas was the Philadelphia Eagles' defensive quality control coach in 2015.

Prior to his initial tenure at Princeton, Thomas was a graduate assistant who worked with the offensive line at Southern Mississippi in 2011, and the linebackers (2010) and secondary (2009) at Delaware. He began his coaching career at Cortland State, where he mentored the cornerbacks in 2007 and the entire secondary the following season.

A native of Brooklyn, Thomas played defensive back and earned a degree in chemical and biological engineering at the University at Buffalo. He also earned a master's degree in sport management from Cortland.

Thomas and his wife, Erin, have a son, Justin, and a daughter, Olivia.

ABDUL CARTER

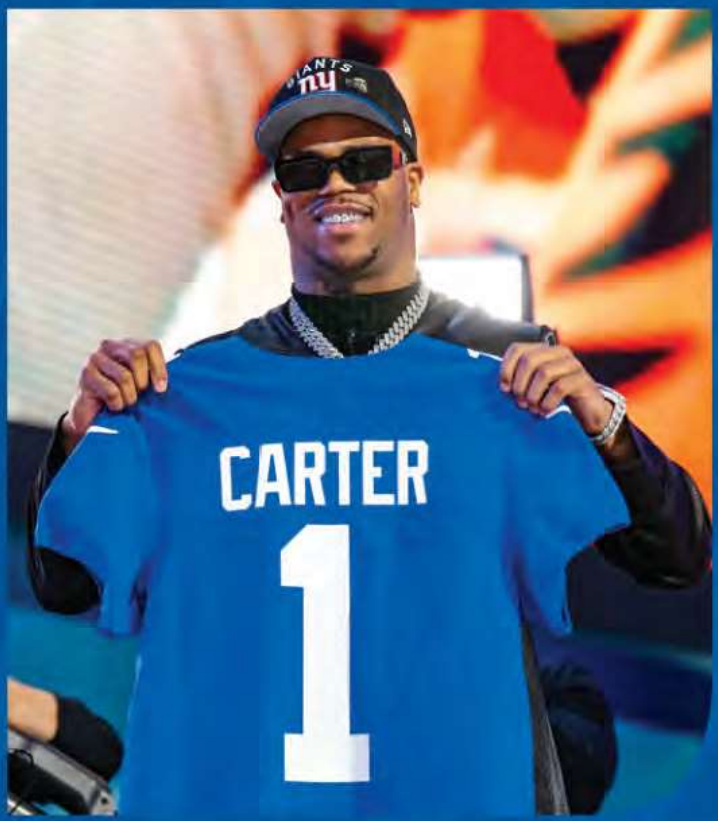
By Dan Salomone

The Giants took one of their strengths and made it stronger on draft night.

After months of deliberation and speculation, the team selected Penn State edge defender Abdul Carter with the third overall pick in the 2025 NFL Draft. The 15th Unanimous All-American in program history and 2024 Nagurski-Woodson Big Ten Defensive Player of the Year will join a defensive front that already includes Dexter Lawrence, Brian Burns, and Kayvon Thibodeaux.

"Really excited about adding another pass rusher to the organization," general manager Joe Schoen said after the pick. "Great kid. We spent a lot of time with him, been in constant communication with him. I know you guys asked last time about the foot. We feel good about the foot, where he is. He's been running, been working out, so we're not really concerned with that at this point. But again, we're just excited to add a really good football player to the organization who's really going to help our defense moving forward."

"He's a great kid, and he's an exceptional player," coach Brian Daboll said. "He's got great quickness, bend, he's hard to block. He played off the ball the year before, and he has some instincts in that area, as well, smart. Just had a really good meeting with him, and then he was up here -- fun guy to evaluate. You look at him from an offensive perspective and things that I think we might have to do if we ever had to play against him, which we have certain guys in our division that are similar to that."



In Carter, the Giants acquired whom many draft experts considered the top overall prospect regardless of position.

"Carter can take over and completely wreck an offensive game plan," NFL Media analyst Daniel Jeremiah wrote in his final scouting report. "He demands attention on every snap and that is going to free up everyone else around him."

Carter appeared in 42 career games and made 35 starts for the Nittany Lions, finishing sixth all-time in program history in sacks (23.0), eighth in tackles for loss (39.5), and tied for 12th in forced fumbles (five).

Before the 2024 college season began, Carter told Cowboys star defender Micah Parsons that he wanted to be the first pick in the draft. The fellow Penn State product took him "under his wing" and Carter followed up by posting 12 sacks and 23.5 tackles for loss, which led the nation and were third-most in school history.

Like Parsons, Carter made the move from off-ball linebacker to edge rusher.

"Well, you saw what he can do when he's rushing on the edge, and the issues that he creates with his get-off and bend is really unique," Daboll said. "Again, that was his first year, but he's an exceptional athlete. Just really looking forward to working with him. Very happy that we had the opportunity to get this guy."

JAXSON DART

By Dan Salomone

After meeting with the media in the downstairs auditorium at the Quest Diagnostics Training Center, Schoen and coach Brian Daboll returned upstairs to the Draft Room for the rest of the first round. As the picks got into the 20s, they started to work the phones.

Eventually, they struck a deal with the Texans at No. 25, which the Giants then used on quarterback Jaxson Dart. In exchange for the pick that landed them Ole Miss' all-time leader in passing yards – a record previously held by Eli Manning – the Giants sent their 34th and 99th overall picks in this year's draft and a 2026 third-round choice to Houston.

"Glad you all didn't go home," Schoen said when the media reassembled after the selection of Dart. "Obviously we traded back (into the first round) for Jaxson. Fired up to get him. We went through an extensive quarterback process. It started as far back as last May in terms of evaluating the quarterbacks, and Dabs and I have been through this quite a few times, and at the end of the day we're fired up to have Jaxson Dart as part of the organization and look forward to working with him."

"I think he's got a lot of qualities you look for in a good quarterback," Daboll said. "He's tough, makes good decisions with the football, pushes the ball down the field, has athletic ability, played in a really tough conference, started there at USC as a young guy. But did a really good job throughout this process of our meetings, board work, workouts and the tape that we liked. Look forward to working with him. Glad he's here, and we'll get started as soon as we can."

A lot of teams decided to stand pat and pick, according to Schoen, as the draft entered the final 10 spots of the first round.

"There's just not much you can do there," Schoen said. "We kept chipping away, have a lot of good relationships with general managers around the league, so easy conversations. The teams that weren't going to move back were up front and pretty straightforward right off the bat, so that allowed us to get ahead of the next team and start working through potential trades."

The Giants ended the first night with players at not one but two positions they felt comfortable with before the draft. Schoen's goal is always to come out of free agency thinking the roster was good enough to play a game that day.

Meanwhile, the Giants weren't backed into any corners at quarterback after signing 10-time Pro Bowler Russell Wilson and former No. 1 overall pick Jameis Winston earlier this offseason. But if the value matched up, Schoen wasn't going to hesitate to draft a quarterback for the first time since he became a general manager in 2022.

"It's been exhausting, to be honest with you," Schoen said. "We've been, whether it's here all week and then you go on the road in the fall or all the way up to Easter weekend, we're still on the road. Credit to the coaches, my staff, the film they watch, the area scouts putting us in the correct direction on the quarterbacks to go see. Yeah, love the staff, love the coaching staff, the collaboration, the way we all work together.

"It's a very detailed process, and we couldn't do it without the coaches, because I don't know our offense inside and out like they do or what they're going to ask these kids to do, so they do a great job. The coaching staff's ability to, again, Easter weekend be away from their families and go do this stuff. Credit to them. I'm glad we were able to get a guy that we're convicted on and we like. So yeah, it's gratifying. I'll probably on the ride home be able to decompress, but it was pretty stressful up there the last 15, 20 minutes trying to get this done. I'll probably reflect on it later in the day, but I'm fired up about the two players that we were able to get tonight."

DARIUS ALEXANDER

By Matt Citak

Most of the focus towards the Giants' draft class has revolved around their two first-round picks, and rightfully so after general manager Joe Schoen was able to add perhaps the best player in the draft in Abdul Carter and a potential franchise quarterback in Jaxson Dart.

But the big boost that the team's defensive front received from the draft goes beyond the selection of Carter.

With their lone pick on Day 2, the Giants added another big body with the selection of Toledo defensive tackle Darius Alexander. As excited as they are about the addition of Carter, the Giants seem just as excited about throwing Alexander into the mix up front.

"Darius Alexander, a 3-technique that we did a lot of work on," Schoen told the media after drafting the tackle out of Toledo. "He came in on a 30 visit as well, was down at the Senior Bowl, and just where we are, we felt we needed to add some youth to the defensive line, and this kid is just under 6-4, 315 pounds, 34-inch arms and freaky athletic.

"Down at the Senior Bowl and he had a really good week, and (defensive line coach) Dre Patterson thinks the world of him and (assistant defensive line coach) Bryan Cox and getting a guy like this that can come in and develop with the depth that we have. Again, a high ceiling for this player, so we're excited to add another player to our front seven."

As Schoen mentioned, the Giants now have a lot of depth on their defensive front. Alexander joins free agent additions Roy Robertson-Harris, Chauncey Golston, and Jeremiah Ledbetter as the new guys in the interior, a group led by three-time Pro Bowl tackle Dexter Lawrence. The unit also features veteran Rakeem Nunez-Roches and younger guys such as Elijah Chatman, Jordon Riley, D.J. Davidson and others.

The 24-year-old rookie showed some promise as a pass rusher at Toledo, picking up 7.5 sacks across his final two seasons. But his strength truly lies in his ability to stop the run, an area the Giants have struggled with in recent years.

"Alexander has excellent size, length and athleticism for his position," NFL Media's Daniel Jeremiah wrote about the defensive tackle. "He is an older prospect as a sixth-year senior, but I believe he will be a Day 1 impact player on all three downs."

The rookie tackle is undoubtedly entering a great situation. When it comes to opposing offensive lines, Lawrence obviously draws the most attention on the inside. When you add in Carter, Brian Burns, and Kayvon Thibodeaux as options off the edge, it's easy to see how the player lining up next to Lawrence on the inside should see plenty of one-on-one situations.

It's clear the Giants saw Alexander as someone who could complement their three-time Pro Bowler on the inside and take advantage of those single matchups.

"We always talk about four hands," Schoen said after Day 2 of the draft. "Oftentimes there are four hands on Dexter Lawrence, so if you can get somebody on the opposite side of Dexter that can win one-on-ones, that's going to see a lot of one-on-ones, and has the ability to win those match-ups consistently, that makes it difficult, as well."

It should not come as a surprise that Alexander is equally as excited to line up next to Lawrence.

"I think it's a great thing," Alexander said after being drafted about pairing up with Lawrence. "I think they get two guys out there who want to go play hard, play balls to the wall, just be able to go in there and learn from him and be able to pick up things from him and install into my game to see how I can use it as a weapon on the field is what I'll be looking for. Just a chance to go out there and compete with another great guy, so I'm looking forward to that and I want to have fun."

Alexander added: "I like to see how he plays with power. Even though he's a bigger guy, he's still got some quick twitch to him. He's able to be elusive out there and make plays in between every gap. I love watching how dominant he is and the force he uses to push guys back and they can't stop him."

Perhaps the biggest difference between the current defensive front and last year's, other than the general influx of new talent, is the versatility that the new group offers. While Alexander primarily lined up in the B-gap at Toledo, he did see some snaps at just about every position across the defensive line.

This was a common theme among many of the Giants' additions up front this offseason.

"If we can get to third down we've got a lot of options in terms of where guys can line up in terms of versatility," Schoen told the media. "Chauncey has got some versatility. Darius has got some versatility. Obviously with Carter, there's some versatile pieces in there that can move around, and that can be difficult for offenses.

"I'm excited about the group. We'll see how they all come together... We're going to have some really good depth and competition in the front seven."

Speaking of trends, there seemed to be a commonality between many of the Giants' 2025 draft picks. After the draft, coach Brian Daboll talked about how toughness was something they were looking for with their selections this year.

It's safe to say Alexander fits that description.

"I love taking my opponents will and just watching them go to the sideline and I know what to say to the coach," Alexander said at his introductory press conference. "I feel like that's something they do well here, too. That's a great group of D-line guys, and I feel like I come in and do that, as well."

CAM SKATTEBO

By Matt Citak

Smart. Tough. Dependable.

When general manager Joe Schoen and coach Brian Daboll took over in 2022, those three words were adopted as the team's motto. The two decision-makers said they wanted people in the organization that exhibited those traits, and over the last three years, they have added many players that fit the bill.

Perhaps none more so than fourth-round pick Cam Skattebo, especially when it comes to the second attribute.

"One of our favorite players in the draft," general manager Joe Schoen said at the end of Day 3 of the draft. "Just the way he plays, the mentality he plays with, the toughness, the competitiveness, the grit."

Daboll, sitting next to Schoen, then added: "He's a 220-pound back who runs with power, toughness and has the type of personality that I think Joe did a great job of, along with the scouts, bringing in guys that have a lot of toughness."

Skattebo was one of the most exciting players in all of college football last season. He finished the season with 1,711 yards on the ground and an additional 605 yards through the air to go with 24 total touchdowns. The young back became the first player since Christian McCaffrey in 2015 to total 1,500+ rushing yards and 500+ receiving yards in a season and ranked second in the nation in both rushing yards and total yards from scrimmage (trailing only Boise State's Ashton Jeanty).

He also trailed only Jeanty in missed tackles forced on runs with 102, according to Pro Football Focus, which helped him earn first-team All-American honors and finish fifth in the Heisman Trophy voting.

"Physical, downhill, get to the end zone back. I love to score touchdowns. That's what I do," Skattebo said when asked to describe his play style.

When asked where this mentality came from, the young back credited his family for helping him adopt this mindset.

"Just growing up in a hard background and with an older brother that picked on me a little bit when I was younger," Skattebo said. "He set me up for success, and my dad also being hard on me as a kid, understanding where I could take this football stuff in life, and he preached on me every day about it, and it's now coming to light."

In his final game with the Sun Devils, Skattebo was named the Peach Bowl Offensive MVP, even though Arizona State lost in double overtime to Texas in the College Football Playoff Quarterfinal. He earned this honor due to his incredible performance that included 30 carries for 143 yards and two touchdowns along with eight catches for an additional 99 yards.

The do-it-all running back, who even registered eight punts for 338 yards (42.3 avg.) during his junior campaign back in 2023, also threw a 42-yard touchdown pass in the CFP loss to Texas.

"He plays with great contact balance," his new head coach told the media after the draft. "He's tough as nails. You can use him a variety of ways. Pass game, he can catch, he can run routes, he can throw the ball, as you've seen on one of those, and he's got very good vision and quick feet."

Now Skattebo enters a Giants backfield led by second-year back Tyrone Tracy Jr., who is coming off a promising rookie campaign himself. Last year's fifth-round pick finished second among rookie running backs with 839 rushing yards and 1,123 total yards from scrimmage.

Both running backs excel in the passing game. However, there are some notable differences in the running style of Tracy and Skattebo. While the former relies more on his speed, elusiveness and athleticism to force missed tackles, the latter takes the more physical approach of trying to run over opposing defenders, something he believes helps motivate the guys around him.

"Physicality is definitely contagious," Skattebo said after being drafted. "If someone gets ran over, it hypes the other guys up and it gets them going. I'm going to continue to bring that and hopefully it feeds off on to my teammates."

Tracy and Skattebo are joined in the running back room by veteran Devin Singletary, 25-year-old Eric Gray, and second-year back Dante "Turbo" Miller, the latter of whom spent the 2024 season on the team's practice squad. With the level of talent in the room, it remains to be seen how carries will be split up between all of the backs.

While the rookie is likely to see touches in his first NFL season, one route he could possibly take to get on the field even more would be on special teams, a role the 23-year-old would be happy to embrace.

"I did play some special teams, something I can do, something I will do in the league, and something I'm going to take very prideful in what I do because that can lead to a long career," he told reporters on draft weekend. "I'm excited to, like I said, play any role that they give me, and it's going to be fun."

It was clear the Giants put an emphasis on adding a certain type of player in this year's draft, something the team's new running back exemplifies to a T.

"Toughness all the way through the draft was something that we have talked about, both mental and physical," Daboll said. "I think Skattebo has got both."

MARCUS MBOW

By Matt Citak

Position flexibility has been a big talking point for the Giants over the last few years.

Ever since general manager Joe Schoen and coach Brian Daboll arrived, having guys that can line up at more than one position has been a point of emphasis.

Fifth-round pick Marcus Mbow out of Purdue is the latest Giants draft pick to fall under that "versatile" umbrella.

Mbow began his collegiate career with the Boilermakers at right guard, starting 20 games across his redshirt freshman and sophomore campaigns. This past season, the 6-foot-4, 303-pound lineman moved outside to right tackle where he put together perhaps his best season. Mbow allowed just one sack in 306 pass blocking snaps during nine Big Ten games, and was even stronger in the run game, where he helped guide a rushing attack that had four games with 200+ yards on the ground.

Now with his first NFL season approaching, Mbow is getting himself ready to play wherever the Giants might need him.

"I feel like I'll be able to succeed at all five positions," Mbow told the media after being drafted. "Been working them all, and they all feel pretty good, so I'm excited to see where they want me."

"Really athletic player, has some position flexibility from tackle to guard," Schoen said about Mbow after the completion of the draft. "We think he can play both. Smart guy, finishes on film. You see him running down on the pulls and stuff. Super athletic. Excited about him."

The selection of Mbow in the fifth-round has been named among the draft's best value picks by several different media outlets.

In fact, Schoen himself said he was surprised the talented offensive lineman was still available with the 154th overall pick after the Giants considered taking him at No. 105, the pick they ended up using on running back Cam Skattebo.

"Marcus Mbow, he's a guy that we were a little bit surprised that he was there when we picked. We really liked his film..." Schoen said. "When you take these guys, sometimes you get texts from around the league from other personnel people or general managers if you took a guy they were going to take, and he's one that there were a lot of texts, just the value where we got him."

Perhaps a reason for Mbow's slide during the draft was due to the question of where he would line up in the NFL. Some believe he's best suited to play on the outside, while others believe it would be more beneficial for him to move inside to guard.

Despite what others might have thought leading into the draft, the Giants are not only happy about his positional versatility, but also excited to see where he might best help the team this year.

"He did a good job playing tackle," Daboll said about the rookie lineman. "He's athletic. He can bend. I think he's got, like Joe talked about, some position flexibility to move inside if we need him to.

"We'll start him out at tackle is the plan, but I think once you get to those type of down the line linemen, if you will, the position flexibility is important, but we'll start him out at tackle."

Mbow sounded equally as intrigued about what position he might be asked to play.

"Kind of just excited to see where I'll be playing at," the 22-year-old said. "Looking forward to hearing from the o-line coach and head coach to see where they want me."

In addition to tackle and guard, Mbow also told reporters he's been working on his snapping since the end of the college football season, just to add another skill set to his arsenal.

Regardless of where he lines up, one thing is for sure – Mbow cannot wait to put the pads on and start hitting people later this summer during training camp.

"Putting people on the ground, winning reps, demoralizing people. It's always fun," Mbow said. "It's definitely part of the reason I love the game."

The rookie joins a suddenly crowded offensive line room as all five starters from last season will return in Andrew Thomas, Jon Runyan Jr., John Michael Schmitz, Greg Van Roten and Jermaine Eluemunor. Veterans Aaron Stinnie, Austin Schlottmann, Joshua Ezeudu and Evan Neal are also all set to be back in the building this season, along with second-year guard Jake Kubas and free agent additions James Hudson and Stone Forsythe.

Depth on the offensive line was clearly another priority for the Giants this offseason, and Mbow discussed his eagerness towards learning from the rest of the guys in the room with the media.

"I'm excited to be around all these guys," said the rookie. "I've seen a lot of these guys, whether it was when they were in college or throughout the league watching film, hearing about them through the grapevine, and I'm excited to get around them and just see what it's like."

SUICIDE & CRISIS LIFELINE

THOMAS FIDONE II

By Dan Salomone

Thomas Fidone II, the country's top tight end recruit in 2021, knows a thing or two about receiving offers from major programs. And they haven't stopped.

Tight End University was the latest one to come calling, and for anyone who plays the position, it can't be refused. The rookie, along with Giants teammates Theo Johnson, Daniel Bellinger and Chris Manhertz, attended the three-day summit over the offseason in Nashville to bond, collaborate and learn from their peers.

Fidone caught up with local media in the tight end's hometown of Council Bluffs, Iowa, to talk about his time at Tight End University, where the 219th pick in the 2025 NFL Draft drew some praise from one of its deans and future Hall of Famer Travis Kelce.

"I got some pretty cool compliments from Kelce just out of the blue, which was pretty cool," the University of Nebraska product said on Omaha's KETV. "He told me I was extremely athletic and moved extremely well. He told me that my top of routes were really good. He didn't say it like that, but he said it, so just being able to hear that from him was cool. I thought it was awesome being able to just connect and make connections with all the guys around there."

Founded in 2021 by Kelce, George Kittle and Greg Olsen, Tight End University has grown wildly into a can't-miss event for players at the position – whether they're active or NFL alumni. Additionally, all proceeds via sponsorships are donated to charities selected by the hosts.

"Being able to meet with them, work out with them, [you] get different input from everyone," Fidone said, "and kind of see how they do things differently because each tight end is different and has different skill sets and strong suits and stuff like that. It's fun to be able to learn from them."

A three-time Academic All-Big Ten selection, Fidone II (Round 7, Pick 219) set career highs with 36 receptions and 373 receiving yards in 2024. The year before that, his four touchdown receptions were the most by a Nebraska tight end since 2010.

Fidone led all tight ends with a broad jump of 10 feet, 6 inches at the combine. He was second at his position in the 20-yard shuttle (4.29 seconds), third in three-cone drill (7.01 seconds), and fifth in 40-yard dash (4.70 seconds).

Fidone was rated as the No. 1 tight end in the 2021 recruiting class by both Rivals and 247Sports.

NEW JERSEY HUMAN SERVICES

KORIE BLACK

By Dan Salomone

The Giants looked for "toughness all the way through the draft" when evaluating prospects and then ultimately selecting their seven-man class this past April.

It began with All-American Abdul Carter out of Penn State at No. 3 overall and concluded with cornerback Korie Black, the No. 246 overall pick who played in 62 games and made 38 starts in his college career at Oklahoma State.

"My gosh it was a crazy experience," Black said of being drafted in the seventh round. "It was like – kind of like just seeing through the whole day of the draft and stuff like that it's kind of overwhelming. When I heard my name, it was a sigh of relief. Just like happiness, too, and just kind of remembering just how much work I put in and stuff like that. So, it was great to hear my name being called."

Black, 6-0 and 190 pounds, played as a true freshman and sophomore and then started 38 games over his last three years. In 2023, he allowed only 16 receptions to rank third among all FBS cornerbacks with at least 350 coverage snaps.

Black was voted a season captain in his final year at Oklahoma State. He was an honorable mention All-Big 12 selection and led the Cowboys with three interceptions, which also ranked eighth in the Big 12. He then ran a blistering 40-yard dash at the Big 12 Pro Day with a time of 4.35 seconds.

"I've always been the fastest on my team," Black said. "Oklahoma State prepared me a lot. Just how we did things, how the culture was at Oklahoma State, and you can kind of just attest to it. We got a lot of guys that came from Oklahoma State that's in the league currently playing and just sticking around just because of hard work and things like that, things of that nature. So, I feel like being at Oklahoma State really helped me, prepared me for this."

Black added: "Right now I've been told by lots of people, my friends and stuff that are in league, find a vet or just find somebody that's been there and kind of just learn from them and not learn from them, but just pick up on how they do things and how it's easier for them. And then just pick out parts of what could help me and how I feel like I learn the best. But just so far, like I said, I've been kind of just putting things together from college. This is similar to that, so just different terminology and things like that, thinking like that. But yeah, just with the older guys, I'm just trying to find somebody, find a vet and pick up on their schedule on how they learn."

From Carter to Black and everyone in between, the 2025 class will look to propel the roster forward.

"It doesn't matter what I think until we go out and do it," general manager Joe Schoen said after the draft. "Do I like the guys? Yeah, heck yeah. I like the makeup. I think they're wired the right way, the right DNA. I think we have the right people in this building. Again, it's up to us and the team to really start to gel and develop who we want to be and what we want to be about and the leadership step up through this off-season, understand what the standard is, and when we hit the grass in August, what's the standard going to be, and we need to hold everybody to the standard. They're going to develop their own identity as players and coaches to what this team wants to be. Again, on paper, I like some of the pieces that we have, but it's up to them to go out and do it, and I have confidence in them that we will."

CURTIN CALL

A BEHIND-THE-BENCH ACCOUNT OF ELI MANNING'S FINAL START

By Dan Salomone

Sunday, December 15, 2019 could have gone a lot of ways. As it turned out, fans got what they wanted. And Eli Manning got what he deserved.

When Daniel Jones - the rookie who succeeded Manning in Week 3 of the 2019 season - suffered a high ankle sprain in the December 1 home game against Green Bay, many wondered if he would be available for the game against the Miami Dolphins. That was the Giants' next guest at MetLife Stadium. In between was a road game in Philadelphia, where Manning played his first NFL game 15 years, two months, and 27 days earlier. It was clear Jones would miss at least one game, but the possibility of a second, that being Week 15, remained unclear.

Jones returned to practice the Wednesday before the Miami game in a limited capacity. On Thursday, he had the same designation. Friday, no change. Thus, it became official: Manning was the starter one more time.

For a football team to function, it needs to have tunnel vision. A writer does not.

Running parallel with the one-day-at-a-time philosophy inside the facility was the bigger picture regarding Manning, the two-time Super Bowl MVP. The Giants had already pulled off the band-aid in September, an inevitability that comes when you draft a quarterback sixth overall and the incumbent has played more games than any other person in the history of a near century-old franchise. So Sunday had potential to be a big deal. Jones was on the mend, and the season was nearly over.

With that in mind, I set out to get a closer look at the player I have covered for a decade. My usual seat in the press box didn't seem sufficient. Standing behind the bench did. So, unbeknownst to Manning, that's where I spent the entirety of the Giants' 36-20 victory over the Dolphins. I was never more than 10 feet from him on the sideline, and my eyes never left him when the offense was on the field. Before and after the game, I followed him through the tunnels of MetLife Stadium.

This was his memorable day.

PART I: PREGAME RITUAL

9:18 a.m. – Eli arrives at the stadium. He walks by a mural of four Lombardi Trophies and, from left to right, the corresponding logos of Super Bowls XXI, XXV, XLII and XLVI. After making the right turn into the locker room, he settles in and then walks through a few adjoining rooms into a spare clearance, where postgame press conferences are held. Before games, it serves as team chiropractor Dr. Robert DeStefano's office. He manipulates the 38-year-old body that has been sacked 437 times over the course of 246 NFL games, including postseason. Seven hours later, Manning will be in the same room addressing the media after possibly his last home start.

10:13 a.m. – At his locker, Eli talks with offensive coordinator Mike Shula and third-string quarterback Alex Tanney. Twenty minutes later, Eli is hunched over on his chair, fully engrossed in his notebook. Meanwhile, Jones goes through a workout on the field with assistant strength and conditioning coach Thomas Stallworth.

10:58 a.m. – Eli, dressed in Giants blue sweats with a gray hand-warmer around his waist, steps on the field for the first time. He makes his way over to Dolphins quarterback Ryan Fitzpatrick, who is about to make his fifth start against the Giants in his fifth different uniform.

11:17 a.m. – Dolphins legend and Hall of Fame quarterback Dan Marino walks over to greet Eli at the 30-yard line. At this point, Eli trails Marino by 92 completions for fifth place on the NFL's all-time list.

11:19 a.m. – Eli runs back to the locker room with people shouting his name. That would only increase in frequency and volume from there.

12:03 p.m. – Eli straps up the pads at his locker.

12:10 p.m. – Eli and the quarterbacks line up at the top of the carpeted walkway that slopes down to field level. Eli tells team photographer Evan Pinkus that his fly is down. He falls for it. Three weeks earlier, Pinkus had become the butt of his jokes when it was, in fact, down. Eli makes his way to the concourse and runs on the field for pregame warmups.

12:38 p.m. – The full team heads back into the locker room. Eli delivers a pregame speech to his teammates, a rare occurrence – but not completely unheard of in his tenure. One that comes to mind is him getting in front of the entire team before they left for Super Bowl XLVI. Manning, having already been through the hoopla, told everyone that once they land in Indianapolis, it is all business. He said none of the Super Bowl Week parties would compare to the one after they won the game, which they did.

This time, even though the team has been out of postseason contention for weeks, Manning still fires his teammates up. He tells them to leave it all on the field and even drops a word Olivia Manning, who is at the game, might frown upon – twice.

"It was damn good," Sterling Shepard said after the game. "It got everybody fired up and ready to go out and play. He's not one for the pregame speeches, but he gave us one today and it got everybody fired up."

"You know, I don't think a pregame speech has ever won a football game before," Manning said later. "I still don't think it has."

PART II: THE GAME

1:12 p.m. – After Eli accompanies his fellow captains to midfield for the coin toss, something he did not do during Jones' starts out of respect for the rookie, the Dolphins get the ball and proceed to miss a field goal on the opening drive. Eli takes the field for the first time, and public address announcer Gordon Deal introduces him to the crowd. This happens during a TV timeout, making it a special, exclusive moment between Eli and those in the stadium. "Eli Manning, Eli Manning" chants break out in a similar cadence and accent of the "Derek Jeter, Derek Jeter" that for so many years serenaded Yankee Stadium.

1:28 p.m. – My grand idea to chronicle the dramatic game comes to a crashing halt. Eli is not dramatic.

That is what makes him, well, him. He lets the football do the talking – except for the expletives before the game, of course. For the remainder of the game, good or bad, he is the exact same person on the sideline. When it's the offense's turn, he takes off the beanie, puts on the helmet, and runs on the field. When he comes off, he takes the helmet off and puts the beanie back on. Then he sits on the bench, typically with Tanney on his right, Jones on his left, and director of football administration Chris Pridy crouched in front of them with a tablet. They talk Xs and Os until it's time to take the field again. Rinse. Repeat.

1:51 p.m. – The first big moment of the game unfolds. Golden Tate makes a circus catch on Eli's pass and takes it 51 yards for a score to tie the game with 8:01 left in the second quarter. Eli makes sure he gets the ball from Tate and gives it to assistant equipment manager Tim Slaman for safekeeping.

2:11 p.m. – Eli throws his first interception. You see something that resembles anger in his face as he comes back to the bench, but it quickly dissolves into resolve. Helmet off. Beanie on. Back to the tablet with Jones, Tanney, and Pridy. Eli throws another interception in a last-ditch attempt to score at the end the first half. The Giants trail, 10-7.

PART III: IT'S HAPPENING

2:40 p.m. – The Giants get just what they needed. Eli hits rookie wide receiver Darius Slayton for a 26-yard gain on the first play of the second half. Eli then finds Cody Latimer for 21 more yards and the offense has the momentum now. After a Saquon Barkley run and an illegal use of hands penalty on Miami, Eli connects with Slayton again – this time in the end zone. 23-13, Giants. Helmet off. Beanie on. Back to the tablet with Jones, Tanney, and Pridy.

3:17 p.m. – After Shepard's catch brings the Giants to the goal line, Eli hands off to Barkley and knows right away the star running back can get the edge. Eli signals touchdown almost instantaneously. Helmet off. Beanie on. Back to the tablet with Jones, Tanney, and Pridy.

3:29 p.m. – The Giants take a 23-13 lead into the fourth quarter. During intermission before the start of the fourth, the crowd, which senses how the game is turning, starts back up with the "Eli Manning, Eli Manning" chants. There is no doubt this crowd has come to MetLife Stadium today to see Eli.

3:31 p.m. – A 10-yard touchdown run by Barkley gives the Giants a 30-13 lead just six seconds into the final quarter. At this point, it has to be dawning on Eli that the game is unfolding the way everyone in MetLife Stadium wants – and the way it should, quite frankly. But still no emotion. Helmet off. Beanie on. Back to the tablet with Jones, Tanney, and Pridy.

3:40 p.m. – A man in a blue No. 10 jersey runs on the field, but it is not Eli. The renegade fan gets near midfield where he is met by security. The crowd quickly realizes what jersey he is wearing and cheers him as he gets escorted off the field.

3:47 p.m. – Finally, the first smile from Eli appears. Not a big one, but the Giants are up by 17 points with 8:37 left in the fourth quarter. It's happening.

3:59 p.m. -- Buck Allen's one-yard touchdown run seals the deal. The celebration is on. The team makes a tunnel of high fives as Eli works his way back to the bench. Eli isn't trying to contain his joy anymore at this point.

4:06 p.m. – Tanney warms up on the bench. Something is up.

4:09 p.m. – Eli takes the field, and perhaps for the last time ever. He hands the ball off to Allen, who loses a yard. Dolphins call timeout.

4:10 p.m. – Tanney enters the game. The crowd, like it has been all day, is in tune to the gravity of the moments that are unfolding. Eli is surrounded by everyone on the bench at this point.

4:13 p.m. – Jones is next in line for a moment with Eli. After that, Eli is shown on the video boards. His face is a mixture of smiling, crying and downright awkwardness. He gives a thumbs up.

"Probably just the fans, the chants, the awkward feeling of standing there on the sideline, kind of a circle around me,"

Manning said in his postgame press conference about what he will remember most. "Everyone looking at me and staring at me, a camera on me and not feeling real comfortable in that circumstance. But getting taken out there in the fourth and just having all my teammates come up to me and say something, little hugs. You appreciate all of those guys and everything they've done to get this win today."

PART IV: POSTGAME

4:15 p.m. – Clock hits 0:00. There is a huge media crush on Eli. He shakes hands with Fitzpatrick before he does an interview with CBS.

4:18 p.m. – Eli completes his victorious trot back to the tunnel, fighting back tears at this point. The moment hits a fever pitch when, amid dozens of cameras, he meets with his wife Abby and their four children in the tunnel.

4:19 p.m. – Eli makes his way into the locker room. The team prays before coach Pat Shurmur delivers his postgame speech. "That was a hell of a day, right," Shurmur said. "You fought hard, we played together, we made enough plays. We got down, we got back up, and then we took control of the game and won it. And this guy has gotten many game balls, but let's give him one more. Eli Manning."

The locker room erupts. Eli takes the ball from Shurmur and the two hug. "Speeeeeeeech," his teammates plead.

"Love you guys," Manning says. "I appreciate this. This is a special win, and they're all special. All of them are tough. It doesn't matter what the feeling is, [how] the season is going, there's not a better feeling than a win in the locker room on a Sunday, boys. So I appreciate this. This one was special, and let's keep it rolling, all right. I'll see you Wednesday."

And just like that, Eli gives the team a Victory Monday.

4:45 p.m. – Eli enters the room, the same one in which he was stretched out in a few hours earlier, for his postgame presser. He recaps the day, including words he shared with team president John Mara.

"I thanked him," Manning said. "He said just thank you and congrats. Nothing too long from either of us. But I saw some of his grandkids and gave them a high-five. I shook a lot of hands and had a lot of hugs today."

Was Eli near tears on the sideline?

"Maybe, maybe."

4:55 p.m. – With his leather bag in his right hand, Manning leaves the press conference and exits the stadium surrounded by family. Not a bad day's work.

THE ANATOMY OF THE NFL SCHEDULE

By Dan Salomone

Each spring, six NFL executives take on an enormous task: Creating the NFL schedule for the next season.

The NFL schedule makers — Executive Vice President of Media Distribution Hans Schroeder, Vice President of Broadcasting Michael North, Senior Vice President of Broadcasting Howard Katz, Senior Director of Broadcasting Blake Jones, Director of Broadcasting Charlotte Carey, Vice President of Broadcasting Onnie Bose, and Broadcasting Senior Coordinator Lucy Popko — must consider the fans, the league's broadcast partners and many other factors when building the 272-game schedule that spans the 18 weeks of the NFL season and showcases the league's best matchups and talent.

The schedule makers will have to work around events that are already scheduled to take place in or near NFL stadiums — events that may compete with the games, put undue stress on the playing surface, or create traffic or logistical nightmares. The league begins collecting information from the clubs in January about any events that may create scheduling conflicts.

The schedulers are also constrained by internal factors. A formula determines each team's opponents every year, and a rotating schedule ensures that every team plays each of the other 31 at least once in a four-year period.

It takes thousands of cloud-based computers to produce thousands of possible schedules — a process that sets the stage for the schedule makers to begin the arduous task of picking the best possible one.

The league's 32 teams are split into two conferences — the American Football Conference (AFC) and the National Football Conference (NFC). The 16 teams in each conference are split into the East, North, South and West divisions; every division has four teams.

Every team will play 17 regular-season games with one bye week. Teams will alternate seasons where they host nine regular-season games and one preseason game, or eight regular-season games and two preseason games.

Here's a breakdown of how each NFL team's opponents are set:

- Six games against divisional opponents — two games per team, one at home and one on the road.
- Four games against teams from a division within its conference — two games at home and two on the road.
- Four games against teams from a division in the other conference— two games at home and two on the road.
- Two games against teams from the two remaining divisions in its own conference — one game at home and one on the road. Matchups are based on division ranking from the previous season.
- The 17th game is an additional game against a non-conference opponent from a division that the team is not scheduled to play. Matchups are based on division ranking from the previous season.

ONCE EVERY TEAM'S OPPONENTS ARE SET, THE SCHEDULE MAKERS BEGIN THE PROCESS OF DETERMINING WHEN EVERY GAME WILL BE PLAYED.

The NFL's marquee matchups often are scheduled to air during the week's premier time slots — Thursday, Sunday or Monday nights or the late game on Sunday afternoons. The league typically schedules the Super Bowl champion at home for the Thursday night game that kicks off the new season.

The league will also schedule games on the Saturdays of Weeks 15, 16 and 18. In Week 15, three of the five designated matchups will be played on Saturday with the remainder being played on Sunday. Specific dates and start times for the designated Week 15 matchups will be determined and announced later during the season.

INTERNATIONAL SERIES

The National Football League announced the schedule for the 2025 International Games that will be played across Europe in Dublin, Ireland, London, U.K., Berlin, Germany and Madrid, Spain — as part of the league's long-term commitment to global expansion, driving year-round engagement in international markets.

On Sunday, Sept. 28, the Pittsburgh Steelers will face the Minnesota Vikings at Croke Park in Dublin, Ireland, in the country's first-ever regular season NFL game.

The Vikings will then travel to London to play the Cleveland Browns at Tottenham Hotspur Stadium — the only purpose-built NFL stadium outside of the U.S. — on Sunday, Oct. 5, which sees the team play two consecutive international games. This game will also be the 40th regular season game to be played in the capital.

The New York Jets will then take on the Denver Broncos on Sunday, Oct. 12, also at Tottenham Hotspur Stadium.

The third and final game in London will feature the Jacksonville Jaguars against the Los Angeles Rams at Wembley Stadium on Sunday, Oct. 19. This will be the 14th game in the capital for the Jaguars, as part of the team's multi-year commitment to playing games in the U.K.

For the first time in Berlin, Germany, the Indianapolis Colts will host the Atlanta Falcons at the Olympic Stadium Berlin on Sunday, Nov. 9. The 2025 Berlin game is part of the NFL's commitment to playing regular season games across Germany and will be the fifth regular season game in the market, with the league having previously played games in Munich and Frankfurt.

The 2025 international slate will culminate in Madrid, Spain on Sunday, Nov.16 with the Miami Dolphins taking on the Washington Commanders at the Bernabéu Stadium, home of Real Madrid C.F., in the league's first-ever regular season game in Spain.

The Los Angeles Chargers will kick off the 2025 International Games Week 1 of the regular season on Sept. 5 in São Paulo, Brazil at Corinthians Arena. The opponent for this game will be announced on May 14, with the full 2025 NFL schedule release.

"The 2025 NFL season will see seven regular season games played outside of the U.S. — the most ever regular season international games to date, including historic first games in iconic venues in Berlin, Dublin and Madrid," said NFL Executive Vice President, Club Business, Major Events & International Peter O'Reilly. "The 2025 International Games schedule showcases an exciting selection of matchups featuring major NFL stars, bringing our game directly to fans around the world, and underscores our collective commitment to global growth as we continue our journey to becoming a truly global sport."

FLEX SCHEDULING

This season, "flexible scheduling" for Sunday Night Football may be used up to twice between Weeks 5-10, and in the NFL's discretion during Weeks 11-17; for Monday Night Football at the NFL's discretion in Weeks 12-17; and for Thursday Night Football it may be used up to twice between Weeks 13-17.

During these Flex Scheduling Windows, the games initially scheduled for Sunday Night Football (on NBC), Monday Night Football (on ESPN or ABC), and Thursday Night Football (on Amazon Prime Video) are tentatively scheduled and subject to change.

Only Sunday afternoon games (or those listed as TBD) are eligible to be moved to Sunday night, Monday night, or Thursday Night, in which case the initially scheduled Thursday/Sunday/Monday night game would be moved to Sunday afternoon.

Sunday afternoon games may also be moved between 1:00 p.m. and 4:05 p.m. or 4:25 p.m. ET. As in prior seasons, for Week 18, the final weekend of the season, the scheduling of the Saturday, Sunday afternoon, and the Sunday night games is not assigned.

In Week 18, two games will be played on Saturday (4:30 p.m. ET and 8 p.m. ET) with the remainder to be played on Sunday afternoon (1 p.m. ET and 4:25 p.m. ET) and one matchup to be played on Sunday night (8:20 p.m. ET). Specific dates, start times, and networks for Week 18 matchups will be determined and announced following the conclusion of Week 17.

WHAT MAKES A GOOD SCHEDULE?

Each team has one bye week assigned and many teams have a specific number of cross-country games scheduled (as determined by the standard formula at the conclusion of the previous season), stadium conflicts and other operational obstacles in their schedule. The scheduling teams aim to balance these operational elements while still trying to maximize fan viewership.

The process is challenging, and there may be no such thing as a perfect schedule, but the schedule makers consistently try to provide the NFL's fans and broadcast partners with a compelling and entertaining slate of games week after week.

ONE GIANT VICTORY

AN ORAL HISTORY OF THE WINNING DRIVE IN SUPER BOWL XLII

By Dan Salomone

As Eli Manning once said about Super Bowl XLII, you can just push the fast-forward button on your remote until you get to the fourth quarter. Tom Coughlin's Giants and Bill Belichick's undefeated Patriots, who had met 36 days prior in the regular-season finale, played it tight to a 7-3 game in New England's favor over the first 45 minutes, but the final 15 produced three lead changes and the most improbable play in Super Bowl history.

But the go-ahead drive required more than a prayer and a helmet.

It took a speech from a future Hall of Famer playing in his final game, a dash of magic on third (and fourth) down, surviving a close call that would have secured the first 19-0 season in NFL history, an offensive coordinator who called the same play three times in a row, and one final ball that needed to travel only 13 yards but hung in the air for what felt like an eternity.

This is the oral history -- as told by players, coaches, celebrity fans, and the broadcasters who brought you the game over a decade ago from Glendale, Arizona -- of the Giants' game-winning drive in Super Bowl XLII.

Our story starts with the Giants trailing 14-10 with 2:42 remaining in the game...

"BELIEVE IT AND IT WILL HAPPEN"

There was a wide belief that Michael Strahan, win or lose, would hang up the cleats after Super Bowl XLII. The Giants' all-time sacks leader was bound for Canton, but the question was whether he would go in with a championship ring. Two minutes and 42 seconds would decide that. After the Patriots regained the lead, Strahan rallied the troops. Cameras caught him standing in front of the offense before the Giants took the field. "17-14 is the final, OK?" he said. "17-14, fellas. One touchdown, we are world champions. Believe it, and it will happen. 17-14's the final. Let's go."

Michael Strahan (Giants Defensive End): If we lose, nobody ever sees that film [of me on the sideline]. I don't see the cameras there in that moment, I don't know what's going on with all that, but as for me, I wanted to win so bad. I wanted to win so bad. And for these guys, they're standing there and I know they're nervous, I know they realize that, but being on the other side of the ball, being on defense, I always believed as a leader you just can't say, "I lead the defense. What good are you doing me?" I don't need somebody that just leads one side, I need a leader, I need a team leader, somebody who inspires everybody and I talk to those guys and dealt with those guys to where they were treated like a defensive player. To me, we were all a team. So when I went up to talk to them, that was because I wanted to relay to them what I really believed needed to happen. I need you guys to score a touchdown, we need to be world champions. "One touchdown and we'll be world champions, believe it and it will happen." And I truly, in my heart, believed it.

Shaun O'Hara (Giants Center): I felt like Mike was talking to us to give himself a peace of mind. I knew he wasn't going to go sit on the bench. He was up, and all year long, he had kind of been the motivational guy. If he had to get the pompoms out, he would get the pompoms out. If he had to talk tough, he would talk tough. I think for him to come over to us as we're getting ready to go out on the field, he was just kind of telling us, "Hey, I believe in you guys." And he was also trying to let us know, "You guys are doing this for me, this is it." I think we all knew this was Michael's last year and that was it, he was done, and this was kind of his last chance.

Chris Snee (Giants Right Guard): When Mike spoke, I listened. David Diehl and I were side by side, and it looked like we were just nodding, but it was going in. We were listening.

David Diehl (Giants Left Tackle): To sit here and watch one of the best defensive ends in the history of the game, the best defensive end that I have ever practiced against, and who came back for this reason to win a Super Bowl and to remember him talking about losing in 2000 and to see his body language that he never got over it and this was his opportunity -- you sense the magnitude of the situation. And for us and him talking, I am nodding and reaffirming like, "I get this situation and I am prepared and ready for what we need to do."

Rich Seubert (Giants Left Guard): We talked about it the night before: would you rather be down by three or down by four? In that game, if we had the ball with two minutes left with a chance to win it, would you take it? I think everybody on offense says we'll take that, we'll take the odds and we'll see what happens. I never personally thought about the moment at the time; we just wanted to go out there and win the game.

Kareem McKenzie (Giants Right Tackle): Like Mike said, you have to believe. That's what we did.

Pam Oliver (FOX Sideline Reporter): I saw a gathering, but because I'm not really allowed to go into the bench area, I wasn't able to see or hear a lot of it. But I did relay to the game producers that they've gotten together, there's a huddle on the Giants' sideline. Heading into the game, I remember being given the choice to, or being encouraged to go with the Patriots because they were heavily favored, undefeated season, and it made sense on paper. But I think I understood that the Giants had been working with something magical and special and all of those words that you consider corny. I think it's borderline rude to be with a team when they win their first playoff game but then the next game is like a glamor team like Dallas or somebody. That's rude. [Tom] Coughlin would ask me. Definitely Osi [Umenyiora]. "You're not bailing on us, are you?" The coaches, the assistants – "You're on our sideline, right?" I'm like, "Yeah? I'm on your sideline." But they would find out during the week and they wanted to know coming into our Friday production meeting who was on what sideline, and that matters to them. It's crazy, but it matters to them. They were superstitious.

Joe Buck (FOX Play-by-Play): The story was easy to tell. It was a layup as far as we were concerned. It's funny because I did the game and I don't remember the first three quarters. There's nothing that really stands out. I know I was there. I know I watched it. It was easy to set up at the beginning of the broadcast and then you just kind of sat back and watched it all unfold with the rest of the nation. I would say that leading into that game, our production meetings are really a good indication of where these teams are because it's a couple days before the game. I just remember talking to Strahan and hearing his confidence and walking out of there – same with Tom Coughlin – walking out of their hotel, the team hotel, thinking, "They might win this game."

Bob Papa (Radio Voice of Giants): I'll never forget, I want to say it was the night before the game, I was going out to dinner and Strahan was going out to dinner with his family. I remember he was by the valet parking area, and I remember standing out there waiting for a ride and he was waiting. He wasn't his normal, jovial self, but he had this quiet confidence, this nervous energy. I think he knew it was going to be his last game he was ever going to play in the NFL. But I remember kind of talking with him, kind of realizing, wow, he really believes they're going to win. And if he believes it, he's going to be spreading that to his teammates.

Rodney Harrison (Patriots Safety): What we found out [from the Week 17 meeting] was this was one of the most – well, I felt like it was the most physical team that we played that entire year. I felt like them coming out and us being 15-0 and even though they lost that game, I think they looked and they said, "Wow, if these guys are 16-0, we stood up to them. We're tough. We're physical. We're big. They know that we're tough, big, and physical, and we're not afraid of them."

Plaxico Burress (Giants Wide Receiver): I remember for the start of the drive, I look over to the sideline, Doug Williams (the NFL was celebrating the 20th anniversary of him being named Super Bowl XXII MVP) is holding the trophy, he got the white gloves on. I'm like, "We're going to bring that home." And Diehl and [Patriots defensive end] Richard Seymour are barking right before the drive. Richard Seymour tells Diehl that this game is over with -- "We're going to end it." Him and Diehl are going back and forth, and I'm just sitting there laughing like, "Yeah, OK." I'm shaking my head and Diehl is like, "Hey baby, it isn't over until it's over." It's a little bit more R-rated than that.

GOING FOR IT

With all three timeouts left, the Giants had to be quick but they didn't have to hurry after Domenik Hixon's kickoff return ended abruptly at their own 17-yard line on a big hit by Bubba Ventrone. Eli Manning found Amani Toomer for a first down right away, but then they found themselves with a fourth-and-inches after another Toomer catch was marked just short of the sticks. Enter Brandon Jacobs.

Eli Manning (Giants Quarterback): Hit Toomer on a little hook route on the first play, but then right away get a fourth-and-one. We've got to go for it and we got to convert.

Amani Toomer (Giants Wide Receiver): I was shocked that it was fourth down. I couldn't believe that it was fourth down, but it happens in the game, and it points to the focus that we had. We still had another down and we were going to keep going. If Jacobs didn't make it, then we would have just lost, but we would have gave it our best. There is no shame in losing if you try your best. There is shame in losing when you have something left in the barrel. That is why I hated [Super Bowl XXXV]. That game still haunts me because I felt like we didn't give our best shot and that was one thing that I didn't want to do in this Super Bowl.

Brandon Jacobs (Giants Running Back): I had been talking noise to Richard Seymour because he had said something. So he starts running off at the mouth and I'm like, "Bro, we're about to beat y'all, you might as well get up and get ready to eat it up and walk off the field and just take this huge embarrassment to win 18 games and come here to get beat in the Super Bowl. You're about to be embarrassed." I told them that. I was like, "I'm going to get this fourth-and-one."

Eli Manning (Giants Quarterback): Brandon ran tough in there just to get enough for that first down to keep that drive going, so huge play right there just to give us a chance to drive down there and get that touchdown.

Kevin Gilbride (Giants Off. Coordinator): He made it by an inch. The big knucklehead, I don't know how he fell down. If you just fall forward, you'll make a first down by two yards. Someone came in and took his knees out. He made it by about two inches. It was close.

Rich Seubert (Giants Left Guard): Give it to the big boy and let him pummel up the middle. I don't even know the play we ran. I know we ran it right A-gap and everybody's just submarining and you're just trying to keep your feet going and hopefully he falls forward and he did.

Chris Snee (Giants Right Guard): They kind of ran right behind me and it was one of those things where there are a lot of bodies flying. Everyone is in a big pile and we have a massive Vince Wilfork at nose and we are trying to move him and he is not going anywhere because he is Vince Wilfork. So it wasn't pretty, but it goes along with the whole season, right? It was never pretty.

Bob Papa (Radio Voice of Giants): It's one of the great, unsung plays. He was blocked and then he got tripped up and only a guy like Brandon Jacobs, just based on his size, was able to get it. It's not like they opened up some gaping hole and Jacobs ran for four and they got the first down. It took a third and fourth effort to get it. So, play No. 1, the Super Bowl is over if Brandon Jacobs doesn't make a huge play.

Carl Banks (Giants Radio Analyst): I can tell you, at that moment in the game, if you're a defender, you're like, "Uh oh." Because all you need is one stop to win it and you couldn't get the one on fourth down.

David Tyree (Giants Wide Receiver): Trust me, Brandon reminds me every time. He reminds me every time with his deep country voice man and lets me know there is no [helmet] catch without fourth-and-one.

GAME OF INCHES

The Helmet Catch. The confetti. The Canyon of Heroes. They don't exist if All-Pro cornerback Asante Samuel doesn't let an Eli Manning pass slip through his hands on the sideline at the Patriots 36. If he holds on, New England is 19-0. Rather, second-and-five turned into the most famous third-and-five play in Super Bowl history.

Bob Papa (Radio Voice of Giants): In Arizona, the visiting radio booth was like on the four-yard line, so they're going away from us. Eli drops back, and if you can picture this, I'm almost looking over Eli's left shoulder. That's the view I have. I see Eli drop back to pass and I'm seeing him throw the ball to the right, and all I see is Asante Samuel. I'm like, "Where is he throwing it?" I was ready to call an interception and his hands go up and it's like a kid playing baseball for the first time who didn't know how to catch.

Eli Manning (Giants Quarterback): I was thinking I wanted to work the inside. I think one of our guys ran the wrong route on the inside and so then I had to kind of throw it away toward the outside. I just didn't throw it away quite as high as I wanted to, so I was kind of upset. Luckily Asante couldn't come down with it.

Rodney Harrison (Patriots Safety): Asante Samuel had the best hands on the field – him and Randy Moss, period. He never drops an interception. He never drops any passes because he feels like that's money to him, you know what I mean. It was a lot of uncharacteristic things that happened to us in that game.

Jerry Reese (Giants General Manager): There were a lot of plays during the game that they didn't make. That ball went through his hands on the sideline. That was a big play. It was some luck that went our way. There were a lot of plays during the game that go unnoticed and that people don't think about.

Joe Buck (FOX Play-by-Play): I think that the Asante Samuel non-interception was kind of the first clue that maybe this wasn't going to go the Patriots' way because that should have been an interception. That was a lot easier catch than the Tyree catch, and yet Tyree made it and Asante Samuel didn't. You do these games and you go back and you don't know it when you're in it. But when you look back and you go, "My God, if one thing happened the other way, the story would have been entirely different."

Troy Aikman (FOX Analyst): Asante Samuel, he not only could have, he should have. He would not have an easier interception in his career, and yet he didn't make the play.

There was a lot happening in that drive that the Giants – they made the plays and the Patriots, who had opportunities, did not. But there was a lot more, what I'm saying, than the helmet catch.

Bill Simmons (The Ringer/Patriots Fan, via email): I cannot talk about that game, be involved in an oral history about it, anything. I hate that game.

THE ESCAPE

Just as the game flashed before the Giants' eyes, the 100 million viewers at home weren't about to believe what theirs would see on the next play. On third-and-five from their own 44 with 1:15 left on the clock, Eli Manning and the offensive line were bombarded by Patriots. Adalius Thomas, Richard Seymour and Jarvis Green all got handfuls of white jersey. Nevertheless, No. 10 escaped.

Mike Carey (Super Bowl Referee): Right from the snap, as soon as the ball is snapped, the rush of the defensive line was just relentless, and the pocket broke down right away. And as it collapsed, I couldn't see anything. So I did what you're really not supposed to do and that is run around. But it was the only way I was going to be able to see if he was sacked or not. So what I did is I ran to the left and just as I was getting to an open window, he was being pulled backwards and then I grabbed my whistle, like I was getting prepared to do it if they sacked him on that play.

Eli Manning (Giants Quarterback): The first person I saw was Chris Snee, and for a split second I think maybe I should throw the football to him. That got out of my mind pretty quick. I said to myself that I just need to keep pumping and maybe something happens.

Rich Seubert (Giants Left Guard): The whole drive, they were doing the same defense. They were rushing guys on the left. Snee's guy was dropping. [Patriots linebacker] Junior [Seau] was dropping on Snee. My guy picked Shaun, his guy looped around, they brought the guy off the edge for David. Shaun and I were off levels, we got picked -- it happens. But we never gave up. Both of us tried to peel back and get a block and get them off Eli. From my eyes, I was just, "Throw the ball, throw the ball, throw it, Eli, throw it."

David Diehl (Giants Left Tackle): You feel Eli kind of drift. You just feel it as an offensive lineman, and playing with him for so long, you know where he is going to be. The whistle never went and we just continued to push and push and as an offensive line that what you think is finish.

Kareem McKenzie (Giants Right Tackle): All of a sudden, I see Eli next to me.

Shaun O'Hara (Giants Center): I would look back at the pictures of the play, and every snap Snee is doing nothing. He had an off day basically. We were teasing him that he's not blocking anybody, so I said, "Well, come over and help us out."

Chris Snee (Giants Right Guard): Here is my version. I am sticking with it until the day that I die. I was responsible for blocking Junior Seau. We were responsible for four down [linemen] and one linebacker. We declared Junior Seau. He is lining up right over me. The ball is snapped, Junior drops, I look to help and they got beat so quick that I couldn't help anyone. So by that time, I turn and look and then I was a deer in headlights.

Mike Carey (Super Bowl Referee): By that time, Eli comes straight back at me and I see [Patriots linebacker Mike] Vrabel sprinting right towards him and I thought he was going to end up in my lap, so I just backpedaled as fast as I could. I didn't put [the whistle] in my mouth, but I grabbed it. So right before the snap, it's in my mouth because just in case there's a false start, you have to have an immediate reaction. After that, you don't like to have the whistle in your mouth because you don't want something inadvertent to happen. So as soon as the snap goes, I drop it, just spit it out, and it dangles there until I'm ready to blow it. When the pocket collapsed, that's when I grabbed it and was ready to blow it but I never put it in my mouth.

Michael Strahan (Giants Defensive End): At that point, I'm getting a little antsy like, "Come on, man." I'm watching it going, "Come on, please, just don't give up a sack, hold the ball, Eli don't throw a pick, you almost threw an interception to Asante Samuel." And I'm just nervous the whole way through at that point. And when Eli's in the clutches of the defense, I'm like literally throwing my head back like "Noooooooooooo, don't get sacked, it's over, don't get sacked." Then Eli, who is so clumsy, he can't even walk up on stage without tripping, gets out of it.

Mike Carey (Super Bowl Referee): When he broke loose, it was like he was catapulted out and he almost went down to the ground. They had him grabbed, but they didn't have him under control. He went backwards a little bit, but then he gathered himself and had enough strength to start pulling forward. And that told me it wasn't time to blow the whistle. And that move to the other side of the pocket was the only way I would have been able to know for sure he had not been in control.

THE HELMET CATCH

There is a motivational sign hanging in just about every locker room in America: Luck is what happens when opportunity meets preparation. Tom Coughlin would later write in his book that he puts it differently: Success is what happens when opportunity meets preparation. Call it whatever you want. David Tyree's will found a way to pin the football against his helmet for a 32-yard gain and the most memorable play in Super Bowl history.

Kevin Gilbride (Giants Off. Coordinator): I'm not looking at what is happening to Eli. I'm looking at what's happening down the field. I was wondering what the heck is going on and why he wasn't throwing the ball because there was no one near Tyree. I'm screaming at him, "Throw the ball! Throw the ball!" I look over and I see the end of it where he is spinning out of the grasp of one or two linemen. Finally, he throws it up. By the time he throws it up, the far safety is playing two deep on the other side, on Plaxico's side, and he's able to come over. He sees how wide open Tyree is..

David Tyree (Giants Wide Receiver): I saw some green grass toward the middle of the field and just felt like as soon as I nestled into it, he gave me shot. It kind of had that "Chariots of Fire" music in the background as I am sizing up the football. I remember going up with two hands to make a play and I knew there would be contact, so in my mind I am just mentally bracing myself for the contact. So I go up with two hands and I remember the contact and I knew I had it and the only thing that I am saying in my mind is, "I got this and I am not letting this go."

Tom Coughlin (Giants Head Coach): On the Friday prior to the Super Bowl game, David Tyree probably has the worst practice of anybody I've ever seen. He can't catch a thing, he drops every ball, ball hits him in the helmet, ball hits him in the shoulder, just he can't catch anything that day.

Michael Strahan (Giants Defensive End): Couldn't catch a cold. Couldn't catch a cold butt-naked in the wintertime, man.

Tom Coughlin (Giants Head Coach): When it's over, Eli goes to him and says, "David, don't worry about it. I understand. When it counts, when it's necessary, you'll make the play for us."

Eli Manning (Giants Quarterback): I saw a white jersey in the middle of the field. I was looking down the field just for somebody. I saw David and we were just kind of running out of time. It was third down and saw him in the middle, thought I'd put it up for him and give him a chance where hopefully he could catch it.

Plaxico Burress (Giants Wide Receiver): Rodney goes for the ball. If Rodney just runs into D.T.'s legs and flips him over, he doesn't make that play. But Rodney being Rodney, sometimes he's too smart for his own good. He's a ball hawk, he wanted that interception, and D.T. basically took it from him. I remember going over to David Tyree and I grab him like, "Oh my gosh, man, do you know what you just did?

You saved the Super Bowl for us."

Rodney Harrison (Patriots Safety): Are you kidding me? Nah, there's nothing I would do differently. Shoot, it was a football play. You get one of the toughest safeties in the history of the NFL trying to knock the ball out and it didn't come out – big deal. They didn't score on that [catch]. That's what people don't realize. You didn't score on that [catch]. We still have football left. We have plenty of football left. That drained us. That took our focus off what it should have been: the very next play. That's what I was more so disappointed about. I mean, a one in a million catch, it happens. It happens. But the thing I was most frustrated about is our inability to respond because we had responded so many times, so well during that year, and that was our character, that was our makeup. And for us not to respond was very disappointing.

David Tyree (Giants Wide Receiver): I remember Steve Smith coming up with some expletives. He is like, "Get off him, get off him. He caught it." So I called Steve my bodyguard on that play because he was talking crap to Rodney for me.

Plaxico Burress (Giants Wide Receiver): The place is going bananas and David Tyree is like, "I don't know what's going on." I'm like, "What are you talking about, boy? Get off the field."

David Tyree (Giants Wide Receiver): I didn't know anything about the catch. I'm looking at Eli like, "This guy, he just made the play of a lifetime." Which he did, not knowing really anything that happened on my end. So all the credit, especially initially in those interviews, just went totally to Eli because I really didn't know anything about the helmet. I had no idea, man. All I remember is getting that second hand back on the football, and I knew I secured it. And then at that point, you know, it's just football and it's kind of just like a blur at that point.

Mike Carey (Super Bowl Referee): Our crew was right in tune with it. They had everything covered from every angle. I took a look at the replay the other day, and just the concentration in [back judge Scott Helverson's] eyes and then Gary Slaughter, who was the line judge, he was the one who relayed the signal. And if you notice, we were there, got the ball spotted and were ready to go for the next play before Eli calls his timeout.

Amani Toomer (Giants Wide Receiver): The referees were spotting the ball, so I remember running up to the side like, "FedEx." So every time there is a play before they can replay it, we say "FedEx," which is a power play just so they can't go back and review the play. So I am like, "Everybody get up." And then Eli was like, "Calm down, guys, calm down, we've got this." So as soon as I saw it on the replay and I saw it on slow motion and you see it never hit the ground, I remember talking to Plaxico and Plaxico was like, "Man, we can't lose this game now."

Domenik Hixon (Giants Wide Receiver): Before that play happened, the guys with the [Super Bowl champion] T-shirts were passing them out on the sidelines because they thought we were done. The disrespect shown almost made it like Eli was going to do it. It felt like it was a perfect dream.

Troy Aikman (FOX Analyst): I think my analysis was something like – I was incredulous as far as the Eli escaping the rush and then the catch. It was just one of those moments when you just say, "Holy cow." You just try not to be too much of the guy sitting on the couch responding to the play. But at the same time, it was one of those just bizarre moment that you're like, "Did I really just see what I just saw?"

Joe Buck (FOX Play-by-Play): I'm sure if you had a camera on us when that was ruled a catch and we're looking at the replays, I'm sure our faces were showing shock that somebody can pull down a catch like that, basically pressing it against his helmet. And then of all people, it was David Tyree, who is known really for one moment – I wouldn't say he would be the first guy you would name who is going to make some circus catch in that Super Bowl, but that's kind of what those moments are. Somebody rises to the occasion, and a lot of times it's not the guy you go in thinking is going to do it.

Troy Aikman (FOX Analyst): It happens a lot to where maybe we can't or won't or don't say something on the air and then we go to the commercial break and it's like one of those, "Are you s* me? What's going on?" Those are the games, those are the moments that really make my job fun and a real privilege to be a part of it.

Joe Buck (FOX Play-by-Play): It's true. You can't be the fan. You can't be the guy overreacting at a Super Bowl party. You're the guy there calling it. You have to err on the side of caution on plays like that. The easy ones to call are the ones where the guy is 20 yards behind the defense and it's clearly a catch and he's running to the end zone – anybody can call that. It's the ones we're talking about like the one with Tyree where you better be sure or egg is on your face as opposed to what happened on the field.

Bob Papa (Radio Voice of Giants): Dick Lynch was in the booth, too, may he rest in peace. That was his last game he ever called before he passed away. I remember Dick sitting back -- and he always had an unlit cigar -- and I remember him saying something afterwards like, "Bobby, that is the most incredible thing. I've seen a lot of stuff. They're not going to lose this game."

Michael Strahan (Giants Defensive End): When he caught the ball, game was over. We didn't have to score a touchdown at that point, the game was already over. We knew we were going to win because I felt our story was too great and our season was too great to end with a loss. After he caught the ball, it was like, "The miracle continues."

David Tyree (Giants Wide Receiver): When I get back to the hotel, obviously it's like a fiesta and the hotel is now party central and it was great and I was just living in the moment, hanging out downstairs with family, friends, you know, embracing teammates. And I said, "I need to go see what this thing looks like." So I finally just run inside, they've got TVs playing highlights and I see the catch, and I'm like, for the first time in my life, my jaw drops. That was the first time in my life I was impressed with my own work. Then it really set in the next day because I never really had media attention really in my career and they're asking me to do some stuff on camera from Arizona. The next thing, this storm arises as far as what is being called the greatest catch in Super Bowl history.

Bill Simmons (The Ringer/Patriots Fan, via email): I cannot talk about that game, be involved in an oral history about it, anything. I hate that game.

MOVING THE CHAINS

The Helmet Catch, although incredible, did not put any points on the board. The Giants still needed a touchdown, and after a sack and an incompletion, the reality was the Giants found themselves facing third-and-11 at the Patriots 25 with 45 seconds remaining. What better time to rely on a rookie second-round draft pick playing in just his ninth NFL game? That's when Steve Smith made a heady play to tightrope up the sideline for 12 yards and a fresh set of downs.

Mike Sullivan (Giants WR Coach): Steve was running a drag route on that play. He was not the QB's primary read, but it opened up as he gained leverage on the defense. He had been told that, in two-minute situations, you always gain as many yards as possible before going out of bounds. He showed good awareness and athleticism in picking up the first down after the catch. I remember being thankful the referee didn't call a penalty on him because he handed the ball to the defender after the tackle and could have been flagged for taunting.

Steve Smith (Giants WR): It was just a standard play that we called all year and I was just ready to go. We called it and we broke the huddle and we knew what was on the line, so it was my time to make a play and it was the right coverage and Eli came to me and he always put the ball right on the money in the big games. That is one thing I can credit him with, for sure, and I was fortunate enough to make the play.

Bob Papa (Radio Voice of Giants): You could just feel all of the momentum. You could see in the stands, the Patriots fans, you could see on the Patriots bench on the near sideline that there's a deflation. It's almost like inevitable that they know what's coming next, that the Giants are scoring a touchdown.

Tom Coughlin (Giants Head Coach): Steve makes a big play just to keep us going, to keep the drive going, but that was the way it was all along -- a big play here, big play there, put yourself in position. Somebody do something to keep the drive alive. That's what Eli and Steve did.

Rodney Harrison (Patriots Safety): See, people don't talk about that. That was huge. The David Tyree catch was obviously a crazy moment in the game, but ... when we didn't stop them on that play, that's when I started being afraid a little bit.

Rich Seubert (Giants Left Guard): Oh, we're going to win.

PLAX FOR THE WIN

Gravity is a pesky thing. The next play couldn't unfold fast enough when the Giants got to the line of scrimmage at the Patriots 13 and saw the coverage they wanted. Eli Manning knew it. Plaxico Burress knew it. Even New England knew it. One-on-one with a six-foot-five receiver and an all-out blitz coming would spell victory for the Giants and imperfection for the 18-0 Patriots. The four-second play took forever.

Kevin Gilbride (Giants Off. Coordinator): I called the same play again on the next play. In my 24 years in the NFL, I never called the same play three times in a row ever. I called that play expecting the same coverage. I'm thinking they were going to play quarters coverage and sure enough, that's what they do. For the first time ever they blitzed and brought everyone. That meant that Plaxico was by himself on the wide side of the field. Now, he has the one-on-one.

hiked because I'm planting off the knee that's taped and I can't go left. I'm like, "If you tear it up, it better be on the last play of the game."

Tom Coughlin (Giants Head Coach): I didn't know that Plaxico was going to play until about one minute before I had to turn [the inactive list] in, because I go in, [head athletic trainer] Ronnie [Barnes] is going to work Plaxico out and let me know. "Well, Plaxico's doing this, he's doing that, he can't get them out on the field." Ronnie goes out on the field and he does a few things and Ronnie's in his ear and he comes in – "He's going to play, he's going to play."

Plaxico Burress (Giants Wide Receiver): I had watched so much film of Ellis Hobbs. For some reason, when he gets inside the 10, he backs up to the goal line and he stops his feet. I kept watching him on tape all week because I had him on the same play basically in Week 17 in Giants Stadium, he backs up to the goal line and stopped his feet, the ball went behind me and I didn't make the play. I started watching tape

Plaxico Burress (Giants Wide Receiver): Oh, man, they're just sticking me on the backside. I'm like, "I'm getting doubled, I know I'm getting doubled." Eli grabs me right before I break the huddle, he's like, "If they get single, I'm throwing it." They called single cover on me maybe five times the whole game. I'm like, "They're not going to single me right now." So we run out and I get to the line. My first initial thought was, "Man, I can't go left." I make a decision at the line of scrimmage, he's going to throw it and I'm going to have to go up and fight for this ball or I'm going to have to jump off this [bad] knee. I said, "Man, you know what, just run the route like you're healthy. If it goes, it goes." That's the conversation that I had with myself before the ball was on him inside the red zone; inside the red zone he stops his feet. I was like, "If he stays true to form and he stops his feet, I'm going to make a move."

Mike Sullivan (Giants WR Coach): I lost count of how many Fridays I would go down to just get in a workout or something and this is when all the players are gone and he is the lone guy in the wide receiver room watching tape and he has his notebook out and he took notes and had very neat penmanship and I always used to bust his chops. He had very neat penmanship. But he spent so much time and he was very smart. Even Kevin Gilbride said that out of all the players that he coached -- and Kevin coached a lot of great ones -- that there was never a player who was more perceptive and who could tell you exactly what happened better than him.

Plaxico Burress (Giants Wide Receiver): So I see the coverage and I'm like, "Oh my gosh. The ball is coming." And then it's blitz coverage. Eli can't hike the ball fast enough. He's like, "Hike it, hike it."

Kevin Gilbride (Giants Off. Coordinator): Brandon had to block a man. They were doing an "uno mas" blitz, meaning that they're sending one more than you have. If you have seven blockers, they have eight blitzing. They had that blitz coming and they were going to try and force it out of Eli's hands. Sure enough, he stayed in, blocked his guy and the rest is history.

Brandon Jacobs (Giants Running Back): I'm to Eli's left, just like the play before that, but I see pressure coming from the right. I run in front of Eli to clean up and he throws it.

up and people in the stands. I turn 360 degrees running full speed with a bad knee. Then like the feeling went out of me. I was like walking on air. I couldn't believe it just happened. I couldn't believe it was me of all people.

Tom Coughlin (Giants Head Coach): I'm seeing Plaxico literally running into the end zone by himself, and I'm just, "Catch that thing now, don't take your eye off the ball under those circumstances."

Rich Seubert (Giants Left Guard): I think I could've ran down there and caught it before Plaxico did. I remember seeing that ball go over my head because you knew where it was going; it was going out to Plax for the one-on-one matchup. It took forever, it really did. But he caught it and it was -- I don't know what happened after that. I just know we were running around like little kids.

Kevin Gilbride (Giants Off. Coordinator): I can't believe he floated it to him. He threw it so gently.

Eli Manning (Giants Quarterback): They were in an all-out blitz, so I didn't know if I was going to have a free rusher coming to hit me. So I probably threw it a little bit earlier than I anticipated. I wasn't going to overthrow it. I saw the man-to-man coverage and a 6-5 on 5-7, so if anything, I was going to put it high and give him a chance to make the play. He ended up beating him clean, and yeah, that ball hung up there for a while.

Plaxico Burress (Giants Wide Receiver): He lets it go, and I make a move on Ellis Hobbs and he's in coverage zero, he has to protect his inside, and he just makes one step, steps down, takes the fake and I just run clean by him. I see the ball

Shaun O'Hara (Giants Center): Yeah, it felt like the ball hung up there for a while, but I knew as soon as I looked over there that it was a touchdown because I mean Plaxico was all by himself.

Rodney Harrison (Patriots Safety): The only thing I regret is not changing that blitz. I knew where Eli wanted to go and that was probably one of the biggest regrets I've had because I was trying to change it. I was yelling at Junior. I just needed him to confirm with me, so we can all be on the same page, and he never confirmed with me because, of course, he's Junior, he wants to get to the quarterback, he wants to blitz.

Carl Banks (Giants Radio Analyst): Styles make fights. This Giants team didn't make a lot of adjustments personnel-wise; they made the adjustments in how they gameplanned it because they had guys across the board who matched up. They matched up so well, and I think the Patriots knew it, although they didn't want to admit it. I know Bill Belichick very well; I know he told his team that this is the best football team you're going to face all year. That was the kind of moment that was made for NFL Films.

Joe Buck (FOX Play-by-Play): I remember calling that fourth quarter on the Burress touchdown and I felt like my heart was going to jump out of my chest just because you do a game of that magnitude and you know there's over 100 million people watching and then you get a great game on top of it. By that point, that was only our second Super Bowl. The first one was Patriots beating the Eagles, and it was kind of non-descript. Even though the final score was a three-point game, it just didn't have that feel. And it was like, "My God, this game is living up to the hype." You get that rush of excitement and nerves like, "Just don't screw this up." You know that people are glued to their televisions watching this game. In other instances, even in a Super Bowl, if the game is not competitive, it's just kind of background noise at a party. And this was just an incredible game that you knew people were going to dissect for years to come. And here we are, 10 years after talking about specific plays and moments in time.

Rodney Harrison (Patriots Safety): I put it like this, that season for us was an incredibly successful season. No one has done that, ever, in the history of the NFL. Sixteen weeks, undefeated. We learned a lot about ourselves, and we had such great moments and memories. And it was fantastic. Obviously there's disappointment in the Super Bowl, but you've got to give the Giants a lot of props. I really have a lot of respect for that team.

David Tyree (Giants Wide Receiver): So a lot of people ask me, "What were your feelings?" If there's one word I can use, it is awe – A, W, E. I think you have every rush of emotion when you know what's before you. Obviously, we still had a few more plays with Tom Brady and the crew, you know. As elated as you are, you know what's ahead of you. Sweat out those few plays and wait for the confetti.

With Tom Brady, it's never over. As bedlam broke out on the Giants' sideline, the defense needed to regain its focus for one last stop. On the other side, the Patriots, who were the highest-scoring team in NFL history at that point, just needed to get Stephen Gostkowski into field goal range.

After an incompletion to Jabar Gaffney and a sack by Jay Alford for a 10-yard loss, the Patriots called a timeout. Hail Mary time. Randy Moss time. Dropping back near his own 10-yard line, Brady launched a pass to Moss that landed at the opposite 20. Incomplete. Fourth down. Brady dropped back again and fired another missile to Moss. Incomplete.

Cue the confetti.

ONE GIANT LEAP

By Dan Salomone

Days after telling his wife that he would quit football at the end of the season, Jeff Hostetler's frustration as a backup turned into the role of a lifetime when Phil Simms broke his foot. Hostetler took over as the starting quarterback, igniting an extraordinary chain of events.

As the days passed by and the midpoint of December 1990 approached, Jeff Hostetler decided to give himself an unusual Christmas gift: He was going to quit his job.

His was not just any occupation. Hostetler was the backup quarterback for the Giants, the NFL's flagship franchise. The team was 11-2 and a serious Super Bowl contender. Hostetler was just 29 years old and in good health.

None of that mattered to Hostetler. He had been with the Giants since they selected him in the third round of the 1984 NFL Draft. In more than 6½ seasons, Hostetler had started just two games and thrown 93 passes, the first in 1988. He had played wide receiver and on the punt team. With Phil Simms securely entrenched as the team's quarterback and no free agency in the NFL, Hostetler became convinced his only logical and positive move was to walk away from the game.

So on Wednesday, Dec. 12, he arrived home from practice and told his wife, Vicki, that he would permanently hang up his helmet when the season ended.

"It is really vivid for me," Hostetler said. "It was the week of the Buffalo game, and it was probably Wednesday night. I just came home and said, 'That's it, I am done.' She was in agreement, because she saw how devastating it had been for me and how frustrating and how it had worn on me.

"Frustrated, disappointed – whatever other words fit into that kind of description that was my career to that point. I think even more so that particular year, because I had a couple of opportunities and proved that I could do it, and then all of sudden it was another dry spell toward the end of the season. It was just working on me so much, the frustration of not having a chance to play and having the prime of my physical years come and go. I said, 'I can't do this anymore.'"

Remarkably, he wouldn't have to. Three days after telling his most trusted confidant his career would end, Hostetler found a new beginning. Simms broke his foot in a Saturday afternoon home game against the Bills. Hostetler took over as the starting quarterback, igniting an extraordinary, fantasy-like chain of events. The Giants won their final two regular-season games and three postseason contests, the last a thrilling 20-19 triumph over Buffalo in Super Bowl XXV, a game played amid a burst of fervent patriotism because of the recent start to the Gulf War. Hostetler progressed from a potential retirement to the NFL's most inspirational story while leading the Giants to their second world championship in five seasons.

Hostetler's success in stepping in as the starting quarterback and playing mistake-free football is an accomplishment to be lauded. In the final two games – the NFC Championship Game victory in San Francisco and the Super Bowl vs. Buffalo – Hostetler defeated teams led by three quarterbacks now enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame: Joe Montana and Steve Young of the 49ers, and Jim Kelly of the Bills. Those games were decided by a total of three points.

"Nobody gave us a chance, nobody," Hostetler said. "You try not to hear any of the negative stuff, but no matter how you try, somebody in the press will ask you what you thought of what this guy said about you. I think [49ers coach] Bill Walsh made a statement about me, and I remember just using it. He had no idea who I was. It was one of those games where we were going against a highly-favored team and there wasn't anyone in our locker room that didn't think we weren't going to beat them."

Super Bowl XXV was every bit as tense and thrilling as the conference championship game. Matt Bahr again accounted for the game-winning points, on a 21-yard field goal with 7:20 remaining. But the 20-19 victory wasn't secure until Buffalo kicker Scott Norwood pushed a 47-yard attempt wide right with four seconds remaining. It is the only one of the 49 Super Bowls to be decided by a single point.

Just 47 days after he hit bottom and told his wife he wanted to end his career, Hostetler was on top of the football world. In his five starts after Simms was injured, Hostetler threw 122 passes, including 76 in the postseason. Not one of them was intercepted. In three playoff games, he completed 45 passes (59.2 percent) for 510 yards, three touchdowns and a passer rating of 92.5.

And yes, he had a change of heart. The Super Bowl victory catalyzed his career. Hostetler played seven more seasons in the NFL, including two with the Giants, four with the Raiders and a final season in Washington in 1997. He started 79 of the 86 games in which he played and threw for 16,430 yards, 94 touchdowns and only 71 interceptions. But his greatest achievement was winning Super Bowl XXV.

Hostetler is one of 31 quarterbacks to start and win a Super Bowl, one of 21 to do so without a loss. He now lives in Morgantown, W.V., where he dotes on his grandchildren and is active in numerous civic, charitable and business ventures, including building homes. Rare is the week that passes without someone asking him about Super Bowl XXV.

"It is amazing how many people watched and saw it," Hostetler said. "Up until the last few years, it was probably the greatest Super Bowl as far as coming down to the last second. To be part of that was great, especially under the circumstances, with our country at war, the patriotism, Whitney Houston singing the national anthem.

"I am one of very few guys that can say they lined up behind center and started a Super Bowl and won. That is a great accomplishment considering I had so little experience at the time. I take a great sense of pride in that. It was just something I did. It really wasn't who I am or what I was about. It was great for getting the opportunity and taking advantage of it. It was pretty awesome."

The 1990 Giants and the franchise's millions of fans will always agree.

STADIUMS OF THE NEW YORK GIANTS

THE POLO GROUNDS: 1925–1955

A bathtub-shaped "jewel box" park in Coogan's Hollow became the first home of Giants legends.

Baseball was America's most popular sport when Tim Mara purchased New York's first professional football team in 1925, and the baseball Giants were New York's favorite team. Mara wanted to capitalize on that by naming his new football team the New York Giants. His hope was that fans of the baseball team would come to support the football team.

In addition to their name, the two teams from different sports shared a stadium, the famed Polo Grounds in Upper Manhattan, from 1925 to 1955. The football Giants played there for their first 31 seasons, during which they were 132–62–11 in regular-season home games.

The Giants went on to host four NFL Championship Games at the venue, in 1934, 1938, 1944, and 1946. They won the first two, beginning with a 30–13 victory over the Chicago Bears in what will forever be known as the Sneakers Game. Four years later, they defeated the Green Bay Packers, 23–17, for the third of eight total championships in franchise history. Countless Giants legends passed through the Polo Grounds, such as Hall of Famers Mel Hein, Frank Gifford, Cal Hubbard, Rosey Brown, Emlen Tunnell, Steve Owen, Morris "Red" Badgro, Ken Strong, Alphonse "Tuffy" Leemans, Arnie Weinmeister, and Benny Friedman. The Polo Grounds also hosted some of baseball's greatest moments, including Willie Mays' famous over-the-shoulder catch and Bobby Thomson's "Shot Heard Round the World."

YANKEE STADIUM: 1956–1973

The Giants switched boroughs in 1956 when they moved to the Bronx and Yankee Stadium, home of Ruth, Gehrig, DiMaggio, and Mantle.

It became the site where Gifford, Robustelli, Huff, and Brown helped the Giants win their first NFL championship since 1938. It was the first of three NFL Championship Games the Giants hosted at Yankee Stadium, none more important to the history of professional football than the Greatest Game Ever Played, the 1958 NFL Championship Game between the New York Giants and the Baltimore Colts.

In 1973, the Giants announced plans to move to a new stadium in New Jersey for the 1976 season, and the city of New York announced that Yankee Stadium would close for a two-year renovation following the 1973 baseball season. The Giants were allowed to play their first two games of the 1973 season at Yankee Stadium before moving to a new location.

Yale officials invited the Giants to play their final five home games in 1973 and their entire 1974 home schedule at the Yale Bowl. The Giants moved back to New York in 1975, this time to a third borough, Queens, and the home of the New York Mets and Jets, Shea Stadium.

STADIUMS OF THE NEW YORK GIANTS

GIANTS STADIUM: 1976–1999

After 50 years in the Polo Grounds, Yankee Stadium, and a few temporary stops, the Giants finally hung their name on their own home in 1976.

On October 10, 1976, the Giants made their debut at what would become the home of their first three Super Bowl championship teams. Thus, Giants Stadium will always be synonymous with grit and glory. The Giants played there for 34 years and finished 155–117 in the regular season. They were also 7–4 in the postseason at Giants Stadium, holding their opponents to an average of 10.6 points in the win-or-go home games. They hosted two NFC Championship Games at the venue, and both were shutouts. They booked a trip to Super Bowl XXI with a 17–0 victory over Washington in 1986 and then stunned Minnesota with a 41–0 win in the 2000 conference title game. Giants Stadium also served as a bridge between two iconic eras in franchise history. It was home to Lawrence Taylor and Bill Parcells, and to Eli Manning and Tom Coughlin, who debuted in 2004. The Jets were co-tenants of Giants Stadium from 1984 to 2009.

METLIFE STADIUM: 2010–PRESENT

After 34 years and three Super Bowl victories, the Giants closed their namesake stadium and opened MetLife Stadium right next door. Almost immediately, it became the home of champions.

In 2010, the Giants and the Jets moved into MetLife Stadium, which the two teams built just a few yards from where Giants Stadium had sat for more than three decades. The Giants christened the new stadium a year later with their fourth Super Bowl title. The 2011 championship run included three consecutive must-win victories. On Christmas Eve, Victor Cruz sparked it all with a 99-yard touchdown catch-and-run from Eli Manning in a 29–14 victory over the Jets, who were the "home" team. A week later, the Giants defeated the rival Cowboys, 31–14, in a winner-take-all game for the NFC East crown to set up a 24–2 thrashing of the Falcons in the Wild Card Round.

MetLife Stadium has hosted numerous other prestigious events, including NFL, college football, and soccer games, as well as concerts. In 2014, the stadium was the site of Super Bowl XLVIII, the first outdoor Super Bowl played in a coldweather city.
